Look out for the sleek-tongued varments that tell you the Advance is not the best machine in the market. Those that tell you falsehoods are not worthy of being called by any other name. The ADVANCE is guaranteed to do more and better work than any other machine in the market, and is the only machine on the Coast that has NEVER been replaced by other machines. Other dealers have offered new machines for an ADVANCE that has been run two years, and have given parties to understand they would give differences, but were told that the ADVANCE, after two years' run was still much better than old fogy machines, if they were new. And if the ADVANCE engine is not the best traction engine, why is it that I have sold TWELVE on the West Side, between Portland and Corvallis, this year?

THE RECENT WRECK

A Remarkable Confession Places Three Men in Jail.

CHLOROFORM AS A DETECTIVE

The O. & C. Train Was Wrecked by a Half-Drunken Trio.

OTHER NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

The Columbia River Salmon Pack—A Brakeman Murdered by Tramps—Sudden Death at Astoria.

ALBANY, Or., July 31.—A remarkable confession was made in this city to-day, which reveals beyond question the identity of three men who wrecked the overland train at Lebanon Junction switch on Sunday night, and has led to the arrest of all three on a charge of murder.

On Monday morning after the accident, William A. Hill, who has been working in the harvest field for Thomas Froman, four miles from this city, at Froman's station on the Lebanon branch, called at the office of Dr. W. H. Davis to have a dislocated arm set. While under the influence of chloroform he talked about the wreck, and said he did not open the switch, but knew who did, and would die rather than give them away.

His mutterings were at the time supposed to be only ravings resulting from chloroform, but on returning to the doctor to-day to have his arm dressed he appeared uneasy, and asked the doctor if he had heard anything about who broke open the switch.

The doctor said: "Nothing, except what you told me while under the influence of chloroform."

This frightened him, and he made a clean confession. He said himself and two brothers, Fred and Herbert Rolf, left Albany partially intoxicated for Froman's. On passing the Lebanon switch, the younger Rolf brother stopped and tried to break the lock on the switch. Failing to do this he unscrewed the bolt and removed the switch bar.

Hill said he and the older Rolf endeavored to dissuade him, and went off and left him at work. He afterwards overtook them, and showed the bolt taken out.

The three men, Hill said, then went on to Froman's leaving the switch open.

A constable went into the country this afternoon and arrested the Rolf brothers, where they were at work, at a place indicated by Hill. These two were brought to this city this evening, on a charge of murder. They tell conflicting stories, the oldest denying the story, and the younger saying that they stopped at the switch and were cracking hazelnuts with rocks.

Hill says his parents live at Astoria, and the Rolf boys live at Sweet Home. Hill looks like a tramp.

The examination will be held in Justice Humphrey's court at 2 o'clock to-morrow. It is expected that the Southern Pacific Company will send an attorney from Portland to assist in the prosecution of the men.

Much excitement prevails over the arrests, and railroad employes and others talk openly of lynching the men.

COLUMBIA RIVER SALMON PACK.

Twenty-five Canneries Pack an Aggregate of About 328,660 Cases.

ASTORIA, July 31.—Every salmon cannery on the Columbia river shuts down at midnight, and it is not probable a single cannery will pack after to-night. It will be two weeks before an accurate statement can be made of the individual pack, but the following is believed to be a close estimate of the season's work:

	CASES.
Aberdeen Packing Co	15,750
Astoria Packing Co	30,000
Abbott	15,750
Badolet & Co	12,500
Buckhelt Packing Co	4,750
Eureka Packing Co	32,000
Everding & Farrell	3,200
George & Barker	16,000
J. O. Hanthorn	12,750
Hapgood & Co	5,700
William Hume	6,250
P. J. McGowan	12,000
J. G. Megler	11,000
Occident Packing Co	9,400
Ocean Canning Co	12,750
Fishermen's Packing Co	12,400
George & Barker	16,500
F. M. Warren, Cathlamet	21,000
F. M. Warren, Cascades	6,300
Columbia River Packing Co	11,750
Samuel Elmore	14,700
George Hume	10,560
J. W. & V. Cook	10,600
Pillar Rock Packing Co	13,800
John A. Devlin	11,250
Total	328,660

These are believed to be within a very few thousand cases of the exact figures.

MURDERED BY TRAMPS.

A Brakeman Killed and Thrown From His Train.

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., July 31.—Harry P. Hart, a brakeman on the Northern Pacific, was killed this morning near Ethel, Idaho, thirty-five miles east of Spokane Falls. He had gone forward over the train to look after tramps who were stealing a ride. He was missed by the conductor and the train was run back to search for him. The condition of the body indicated that he had been murdered by the tramps and thrown from the train. The body was sent to Sprague, where his people reside but ordered back to Rathdrum by a coroner's jury for examination, after which it was sent to Sprague for burial. The investigation is still progressing.

FROM SPOKANE FALLS.

Two Big Enterprises Incorporated—Attempted Murder—Congressman Dorsey's Party.

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., July 31.—The Spokane Marble Company was incorporated to-day with a capital stock of $100,000, by S. S. Bailey, H. Bolster, Almon Ames, J. M. Brazell and Henry Brook. The company will deal in all kinds of minerals and handle mining claims and mineral lands and will construct all necessary buildings, machinery and railroads; will manufacture and sell marble, granite, lime and building materials. The incorporators will constitute the board of trustees.

Articles of incorporation were also filed to-day organizing the Spokane Fuel Company with a capital of $50,000. The company will handle fuel, ice, feed, lumber and building material and construct such mills and machinery as are necessary for the transaction of its business. The trustees and incorporators are: John H. Stowe, Edward Noonan and W. G. Kegler.

J. J. Johnson went into the railroad lunch counter near the depot to-night at 12 o'clock and, raising a disturbance, was thrown out. He soon returned with a knife, and the first person he saw was a brakeman named Murray. He went at him with the knife, cutting through his hat into the scalp, and inflicting a bad wound. He also cut his wrist badly.

A private car containing Congressmen Dorsey, of Nebraska; Hayden, of Massachusetts; Goff, of West Virginia; Stewart, of Vermont; Burroughs, of Michigan; Perry S. Heath, Washington correspondent of the Indianapolis Journal, and Captain Burr, of West Virginia, arrived in the city this morning. They spent the day at Cœur d' Alene lake returning here in the evening. They leave in the morning for the East.

SUDDEN DEATH AT ASTORIA.

Isaac W. Buchanan, the Well-known Steamboat Engineer and Owner.

ASTORIA, July 31.—Isaac W. Buchanan, a well-known steamboat engineer, who had been feeling poorly for some time, went on board the steamer Telephone this afternoon to go to Portland to-night. "How are you feeling, Captain?" asked Captain Scott. "A good deal better," said Mr. Buchanan. He walked to the lower deck and dropped dead from heart disease. The body will be taken to Portland to-night.

Captain Isaac W. Buchanan was born in the state of Virginia, in a small burg near Wheeling, in July, 1826. While he was yet young his parents removed to Franklin county, Ohio, where they resided many years in the cities of Delaware and Worthington. In the spring of 1848 he came across the plains with the Walker and Purvine families, and settled with the earliest pioneers in this state. Oregon has been his home ever since up to the time of his death.

Captain Buchanan first settled at Oregon City, where he built a sawmill, which he owned and operated for several years. The business not being suited to his taste, he sold out his interests there and came to Portland. Here he opened a distillery, which for a long time was known as the Star distillery. After having been in the business here a few years he went to Walla Walla to build a distillery there. At Walla Walla he built the Rice distillery, and a little later the Oberholtz & Scott distillery. It was in the last-named distillery that he lost about everything he had. Financially ruined and somewhat discouraged, he returned to Portland in the winter of 1871-72 and went into the steamboating business with his brother, Captain W. J. Buchanan. His health also began to fail at the same time. The first boat he was connected with was the tug Ben Holladay, on which he held the position of engineer for four years. He then helped build the Ocklahama and the City of Quincy, and in later years up to a year ago he was connected with the steamer Traveler, now owned and commanded by his nephew. About a year ago he went back to his old home in Ohio, where he has many warm friends and a wide circle of acquaintances. Soon after his return to Oregon he commenced to fail more rapidly and his death was expected at almost any time.

Captain Buchanan was never married. He leaves two brothers—Captain W. J. Buchanan and D. K. Buchanan, as nearest relatives, to mourn his death. Between the deceased and his brothers there existed the closest ties of brotherhood and all their business affairs in late years were managed jointly.

Captain Buchanan was one of the best known river men, and his many manly qualities were admired by all. His kind and genial disposition made friends for him with all he came in contact.

His death is mourned not alone by his brothers and nearest relatives, but by hosts of friends and acquaintances, whose esteem and friendship he had won.

The body was to have arrived in Portland early this morning and Undertaker George H. Rivers will take charge of the remains. The funeral will be held from the residence of his nephew, Captain W. S. Buchanan, No. 161 North Eleventh street. Time of service to be announced later.

FIRE AT DALLAS, OR.

In One Hour the Business Street Was in Ashes.

LOSS, TWELVE THOUSAND DOLLARS

This Is the Third Time the Street Has Been Swept by Flame—Brick Buildings Will Now Be Erected.

DALLAS, Or., July 31.—The beautiful little city of Dallas was visited again by fire, at 1:15 this morning. The fire lasted one hour and did destructive work. This is the third time the buildings on this street have been burned to the ground. They will be rebuilt with brick. The losses are as follows:

Crider Bros., grocery men, stock and building, $6000; insurance, $1500.

Dallas City bank, losses nominal. The vault stood the terrible heat in fine shape.

J. D. Ellis, buildings, $1500; no insurance.

J. H. Lawton, barber, $250; no insurance.

J. C. Hayter, confectionery, $1,000; insurance, $500.

U. S. Grant, postmaster, $200.

Fenton & Truitt, damage on dry goods, $200; insured.

William Faull, hardware merchant, $1500; insurance, $500.

Hayter, damage on dry goods, $500; insured.

A. K. Wilson, damage on drugs, $300; no insurance.

Z. F. Vaughn, damage on jewelry, $500; insured.

FROM CHEHALIS.

Active Operations on the New Water Works—Other Improvements.

CHEHALIS, July 30.—The directors of the Chehalis Flume and Aqueduct Company held a meeting yesterday and elected officers, as follows: President, William West; vice president, J. D. Rice; secretary, N. B. Coffman; treasurer, L. Lawrence. An assessment of 5 per cent. on the capital stock was levied and a committee appointed to secure the right of way, which will be done immediately. It was ordered that an engineer be engaged as soon as possible and put to work, so that construction can be inaugurated at an early day and finished before winter. It is the company's intention to have the flume in operation within ninety days.

The mains for Mrs. Barrett's water works have arrived and will be immediately laid on Main street.

The Barrett Opera house is almost completed and makes a fine appearance.

The Weston livery stable was sold to-day to Spaulding & Co. for $3500.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

Ex-Secretary Whitney Denies That He Wants To Be President.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Ex-Secretary Whitney telegraphs from Lenox to the World as follows: "An item is going the rounds of the press to the effect that a new weekly newspaper is about to be established at Washington in my interest as a candidate for the presidency. Be kind enough to publish that it is absolutely without foundation. I am not and shall not be a candidate for the nomination for that office, nor to any other. There are men in the democratic party much better entitled to its honors than I am, and I expect to help the best man to win. The item is absurd on its face and I object to being thought capable of such nonsense."

CENSUS OF THURSTON COUNTY.

The Figures Show a Wonderful Increase in Population.

OLYMPIA, W. T., July 31.—The census of Thurston county is completed. Population of the county, 7201, against 4629 in 1887. Population of Olympia city, 3228, Tumwater 340, Seatco 550. Males in the county, 4277; females, 2924; Chinese, 220. Increase of population in Olympia in two years, nearly 100 per cent. Voters in the county, 901.

Walla Walla News Items.

WALLA WALLA, July 31.—Died, this morning, at Spokane Falls, of typho-malaria, Mrs. C. T. Maxwell, of this city.

It is reported here to-night that Judge Hanna, late of this town, is lying at the point of death at Colfax.

Judge J. R. Douglass, sent by the government to supervise the Umatilla reservation surveys, was in the city this morning, on his way East. He said he would report favorably on opening the same, and believed it would be done soon.

It is reported that the entire $135,000 subsidy for extension of the Hunt system to Grande Ronde, has been raised. It is believed that work will begin in a short time in that direction.

A New York man has offered $20,000 for our agricultural society's grounds, but not being willing to guarantee the continuance of the fair, the offer was refused.

Tacoma News Items.

TACOMA, July 31.—Justice Strong arrived in Tacoma this morning.

The two city justices collected $1024 in fines during the month of July.

It has been practically decided to pave Pacific avenue with planking, instead of with cedar blocks, as was arranged. A numerously signed petition, gotten up by the merchants on Tacoma's main business street, is the cause of the change of feeling.

"Sunset" Cox will leave for Portland on the morning train, where he becomes the guest of Senator Mitchell over Sunday.

Charles Francis Adams, jr., president of the Union Pacific, left for Portland this evening. He refused to be interviewed by the local reporters.

More Patients for the Asylum.

SALEM, Or., July 31.—John Notter, of Medford, was brought to the asylum to-day. He came to Medford three months ago, and imagines he is a noted pugilist. He is aged 23 years.

Jessie Dooley, an orphan girl 13 years old, whose father died a short time ago at the asylum here, was brought up this evening from Portland by Deputy Minto, and lodged in the asylum.

Probably Killed Himself.

VICTORIA, July 31.—H. McNabb Steward, who died suddenly yesterday, is supposed to have committed suicide. He came home in a state of intoxication and is supposed to have taken an overdose of opiate. Ten days ago Steward drove a couple of needles toward his heart, and a doctor extracted one but could not find the other.

Seattle News Items.

SEATTLE, July 31.—Mrs. Julia Collier, who was so terribly burned by an explosion of coal oil on Saturday afternoon, died this evening.

The Evening Press will be issued under its new management to-morrow, with S. R. Frazier as managing editor and John G. Egan city editor.

Another Fire in the Louise Vaughn.

ASTORIA, July 31.—The steamer Louise Vaughn took fire again, this time forward of the boiler, at 5 o'clock this morning. The department got down as quickly as possible and put the fire out. No one knows how it started.

Murat Halstead Returns to America.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Murat Halstead arrived on the City of Paris to-day. He said his health had been benefited by his stay abroad.

WISDOM AND FOLLY.

A Large Display of Each in the Olympia Convention.

A CRAZY BUT AMUSING LETTER

"Grateful to the Supreme Ruler of the Universe."

THUS READS THE PREAMBLE

The Convention Has Struck Another Snag—The Question of Counties Voting Subsidies to Railroads.

OLYMPIA, W. T., July 31.—The convention met at 9, the president in the chair.

Prayer by Chaplain Thompson.

The roll call showed all present except as excused.

The records were read, corrected and approved.

The president submitted "a request from a wood-chopper," asking that only American citizens be employed on public works, and signed Robert Skutt; referred to the legislative committee.

Also a communication from Julia E. Kennedy, superintendent of schools at Seattle, relative to text books in schools; referred to the committee on education.

Also a communication from Harold Wheelright, assistant secretary of the Tacoma chamber of commerce, with resolutions of that body requesting an article in the constitution directing the legislature to sell school lands, tide flats and shore lands, and when so sold that the riparian owners shall have prior right of purchase; referred to the committee on state lands.

A LOCAL GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN.

Also a communication signed "Shiloh," which was reported to come from Frank Streamer, of Ellensburgh, formerly a resident of Steilacoom. Its reading produced a deal of merriment among the delegates, after which it was laid on the table.

WENATCHEE, W. T., July 27, 1889.

To the Hon. John P. Hoyt, president of the constitutional convention, Olympia, W. T.—Sir:—This is no flash letter. The writer is not the author, no more than the operator is the telegram. The penmanship will attest its mental mechanism, and the sense of the sentences the essence, concentrated truth of three score years' gleaning. You know the writer and he knows you. There is not a ruler of note in the United States that does not respect and consider well the weight of words that high mountain atmospheres formulate from purity of inhalated feeling. Scholars are not philosophers, and lawyers are not physicians. Law is not always nature. The Mosaic law was written on tablets of stone (so said) by the finger of God on Mount Sinai. The constitutional convention of Carmelites were in session in the swamps below framing Leviticus. The results were perihelion, floods, wars, epidemics and lewd literature—such as contained in the various Police Gazettes of Washington Territory, called newspapers, whose reporters and editors imagine they know how to build a ship or construct a railroad. Consider this—there is not a newspaper on the Pacific coast, and not a commercial writer engaged on any journal west of the Missouri river. That is the kind of "free press" we are pressing into a licentious constitution, to thwart virtuous legislation, by a surreptitious paper which knows that all nature of sun, air and streams is set at naught. Consider the Pennsylvania floods.

Are you delegates assembled in constitutional convention framing a building, or are you storing one with refuse merchandise? Is a preamble to a constitution the leading lie of it, or only the truth of it? Does not the main body of any constituted thing wag the head adversely? Consider this. Your adopted preamble annuls all law sections in your constitutional body. Every builder knows that you must first have a building and then have it occupied by tenants before you get laws of natural sense to govern it. No schoolmaster makes rules to govern his pupils until he sees and knows what kind of pupils he has to train. How many of your convention know the ailment of mind which phrenzies into "law," "law," law?" "Law" is a disease worse than bloody flux. For pity's sake rub out entire that judiciary article. It cursed California and and beggared its builders. Don't disgrace Washington.

Constitutions are misnomers nowadays, the name should be "indigestions." Climatic changes between now and 1900 will render your constitutional law void. I would that my people would consider the second and Mount Sinai commandment, and stop lawmaking. Try every case by its evidence at the time of infraction, and award punishment at once through a jury of decision. No precedents are needed for proofs of past wisdom. Every case must be tried on its merits immediately, and no more shifts and evasions. Appellate courts are a conspiracy to endanger innocence with a second trial. A repeated violation of the constitutional edict of the United States government, a constitution which denies God, repeals its preambles, and puts a law tail of amendments to its tory body. What blasphemy that is. Dare you repeat it? Simply create in your constitution certain state officers; fix salaries in the minimum, and regulate duties and taxes; that is all you are elected to do. Let future legislatures fix the term of office and pass general laws for public approval. This is sense, and will be sustained by sun, air and stream, the great Creator's trinity of forces.

OTHER PETITIONS AND PROTESTS.

Warner submitted a communication from the National Reform Association, asking that God be recognized in the constitution; referred to the preamble committee.

Willison presented a petition from the Pierce County Medical Society, asking for a board of vital statistics, and regulation of the practice of medicine; committee on public health.

Comegys presented a protest against section 9 of the corporations committee report (which requires every corporation doing business in the state to maintain an office in the state); referred to the corporations committee.

Gowey presented a petition from the Washington Sabbath Association, relative to legislation to secure Sunday rest; referred to the committee on preamble.

On motion of Crowley, the privileges of the floor were extended to Hon. Thomas H. Brents, of Walla Walla.

Mr. Dyer appeared, and was marked present at roll call.

A COMPROMISE PREAMBLE.

It Reads "Grateful to the Supreme Ruler of the Universe."

Warner made a report from the preamble committee on the subject of placing the name of the Deity in the constitution. The majority report leaves it out, and is signed by Warner, Hicks, Comegys, Dallam and Henry. The minority report puts it in, and is signed by Sohns and Kellogg. Both reports were referred to the committee of the whole.

The article on militacy was taken up and read the third time, adopted and sent to the revision committee.

Durie moved going into committee of the whole on the report of the committee on preamble.

Griffitts—If we are compelled to do this at this time, I shall insist on the rule requiring such reports to lie over one day, as this report is only made this morning.

Glascock—A motion to go into committee is not debatable.

The Chair—The gentleman from Spokane (Griffitts) can not do as he suggests; he is too late. The report has been already referred to the committee of the whole by unanimous consent. The gentleman should have objected then.

Griffitts—I did not understand it.

The Chair—I will take the sense of the house on my ruling.

The chair was sustained.

Cosgrove—I am surprised the gentleman from Spokane (Griffitts) can so soon turn from assailing the dignity of a committee.

Griffitts—I never called a gentleman to order in my life, but if I ever had bad taste the last speaker has made it. I make the point that a two-third vote is necessary to suspend the rules.

The Chair—No rules are being suspended. The chair was simply taking the sense of the house on a ruling.

Durie's motion prevailed, and the convention went into committee of the whole on the preamble.

Mr. Stiles, of Tacoma, resumed the chair. The majority and minority reports of the committee on preamble were read, as follows:

MAJORITY REPORT.

"We, the people of the state of Washington, to secure the blessings of liberty, insure domestic tranquillity and preserve our rights, do ordain this constitution."

MINORITY REPORT.

"We, the people of Washington, grateful to the Supreme Ruler of the Universe for our liberty, do ordain this constitution.

Lindsley moved that the minority report be adopted.

Sullivan, (Tacoma,) moved that the committee rise and recommend that the convention settle the whole matter; lost.

Warner did not rise to discuss the matter, but simply stated the position of the committee. "We have considered it a mere sentiment and of little consequence either way and shall be satisfied which ever way the committee decide but trust the subject will not be debated

Comegys moved to amend by substituting "majority" for "minority"

Cosgrove called attention to the real point at issue, so that the gentlemen who have said they had no real objections to the name of the Deity in the constitution need make no mistake.

Willison asked the effect of voting aye as he was absent from the debate yesterday

The chair stated that voting 'aye' on this motion was equivalent to leaving out the name of God from the preamble.

The motion of Comegys was lost and Lindsley's motion prevailed—yeas 45, nays 22 So that the phrase, 'Grateful to the Supreme Ruler of the Universe for our liberties,' is the way it will stand in the constitution

T M Reed moved that the committee rise and report back the article and recommend its adoption So voted

The president resumed the chair

Stiles reported the article and recommendation of the committee of the whole

The question was then upon concurrence in the amendments made by the committee of the whole, and they were all considered together and the yeas and nays ordered All the amendments were concurred in by the following vote

ADDITIONAL AMENDMENTS.

The Article Referred to the Judiciary Committee

On motion of Prosser the preamble was further amended so as to read 'We, the people of the state of Washington'

Godman offered the following as an additional section 'No standing army shall be kept up by this state in time of peace and no soldier shall, in time of peace be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner nor in times of war except in the manner prescribed by law' adopted—yeas 57 nays 13.

He also offered a substitute for section 27 "A grand jury shall be drawn and summoned at least once a year in each county" lost.

Griffitts moved to strike out in section 22 the words which authorized the legislature to provide for a verdict by nine or more jurors in civil cases in any court of record, and for waiving of the jury in civil cases where the consent of the parties interested is given thereto," lost on a roll call by yeas 17 nays 54.

Griffitts protested against this vote and his protest, in writing, was spread on the record

Mires moved to amend section 16 by striking out the words, "except for private ways of necessity," so that private property cannot be taken for such ways.

Gowey moved an amendment to strike out the whole of the first sentence, so that private property can not be taken for any private use

These two propositions were discussed by Mires Dunbar, Warner, Eshelman, Gowey, Griffitts, Crowley, Sullivan (Tacoma) and Power

Gowey's motion was lost, and then Mires's motion was subjected to a roll call, and failed by—yeas 13, nays 57

Dunbar then moved to add the words, "and for the right of way for irrigating canals and ditches so that private property may be taken for these works also Discussed by Sullivan (Whitman) Jones, Dunbar Cosgrove, Tibbetts, Gowey Warner Turner, Kinnear, Buchanan and Sullivan (Tacoma.)

Tibbetts moved to refer back to the preamble committee

Warner didn't care for it to come back again to his committee and as this was distinctly a legal question, he moved to amend by sending it to the judicial committee.

Moore moved the previous question lost

Eldridge wanted to present a substitute but was ruled out of order.

The article was then referred to the judicial committee to have section 16 considered

INDEBTEDNESS

The Committee's Report Considered in Committee of the Whole

The report of the committee on state county and municipal indebtedness was taken up and on motion of Bowen the convention went into committee of the whole on the subject, with Dyer, of King in the chair

Section 1 was taken up, which reads as follows "The state may meet casual deficits or failures in the revenues, or for expenses not provided for contract debts, but such debts direct and contingent, singly or in the aggregate, shall not at any time exceed $400,000 and the moneys arising from the loans creating such debts shall be applied to the purpose for which they were obtained or to repay the debt so contracted, and to no other purpose whatever"

Cosgrove moved to strike out the words, 'but such debts, direct and contingent, singly or in the aggregate, shall not at any time exceed $400 000.'

Turner moved to amend by striking out the whole section, and then ensued a debate on finance and financial policies, which carried the committee through to noontime without a break or decision on any question pending, and in which Messrs. Cosgrove Turner, Moore, Browne, T. M. Reed Kinnear Durie Miner, Weir, Stiles and Griffitts took part. During the debate, Miner proposed a substitute, the effect of which would be to consolidate the first and third sections and increase the limit of indebtedness from $400,000 to $500,000.

Weir also had a substitute, but the chair decided him out of order while the pending question was upon Miner's substitute.

Eshelman moved that the committee rise and report progress so ordered.

The president resumed the chair, and Dyer reported progress from the committee of the whole, and leave was granted to sit again The president designated Sullivan, of Tacoma, to take the chair at the afternoon session.

On motion of Mires the convention took a recess to 2 o clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Consideration Resumed of the Article on Indebtedness

The convention reassembled at 2 the president in the chair

Buchanan asked leave to introduce a substitute for section 21 of the report of the committee on corporations, that it might be read and ordered printed, and thus be ready for consideration when that report comes up It provides for a board of three railroad commissioners to be appointed by the governor for six year terms, the members to be at least 35 years old residents of the territory ten years and wholly unconnected with any transportation company either as officers or stockholders. They shall have power to fix maximum rates for such company's charges, but the companies may appeal to the supreme court. Their salary is to be not less than $ 500 and necessary traveling expenses, and their powers are to be similar to courts of record, and their decrees enforced through the courts Common carriers are to be prohibited from engaging in any other business and from discriminating against any person or locality, either in charges or facilities.

The convention ordered it to lie on the table but refused to order it printed

IN COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Prosser moved to go into committee of the whole on the article on state and county indebtedness so ordered

Dyer resumed the chair The pending question was on Minor's substitute for section 1, as follows

"No debts shall hereafter be contracted by or on behalf of this state unless such debt shall be authorized by law for some single work or object, to be distinctly specified therein which law shall provide ways and means exclusive of loans for the payment of the interest on all such debt as it falls due and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within twenty years from the time of the contracting thereof No such law shall take effect until it shall at a general election, have been submitted to the people and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election, and all moneys raised by authority of such law shall be applied only to the specific object therein stated or to the payment of the debt thereby created, provided that the state may, to meet casual deficits or failures in revenues, or for expenses not provided for contract debts, but such debts, direct and contingent singly or in the aggregate, shall not at any time exceed $500,000 and the moneys arising from the loans creating such debts shall be applied to the purpose for which they were obtained or to repay the debt so contracted, and to no other purpose whatever"

Brown, chairman of the committee, asked that, if any other delegate wanted to speak, he would do so now before he closed the debate

Godman understood that this was a substitute for sections 1 and 3, and so not in order, as only section 1 was under consideration

The chair held the substitute to be in order

Weir wished to move an amendment striking out "five hundred thousand dollars" and inserting 'one per centum of the assessed valuation' ruled out of order.

Lillis wished to amend section 1 by raising "$400,000" to "$800,000"

There was another discussion on a point of order, in which Cosgrove Griffitts Turner, Lillis Warner Weisenburger, Dunbar and the chair participated.

Then the chair put the question 'Shall the amendment offered by Lillis be put?' The committee said no.

Turner made a point of order that Minor's amendment was out of order

Cosgrove, Dunbar, Griffitts, Turner, T M Reed, Warner and Henry debated this point.

The chair reiterated his ruling that the substitute was in order

Turner appealed, and the convention sustained the appeal, and the substitute was then declared out of order by yeas 28 nays 25 after having been vigorously debated for an hour or two

The debate now took a fresh start, the question being on Turner's motion to strike out section 1. Blalock and Browne favored the motion, and Sturdevant and Lillis opposed it.

At the end of half an hour a vote was taken and the motion failed

The question recurred on Cosgrove's amendment which was to strike out the words 'but such debts, direct or contingent singly or in the aggregate shall not at any time exceed $400 000'

Minor now renewed his motion to adopt the substitute as above printed

Comegys claimed again that it was out of order and the chair sustained him

Cosgrove's motion was voted and failed

Mr Minor again renewed his substitute and this time it got the vote and was lost.

Lillis moved to increase from $400 000 to $800 000—lost.

Stiles moved to substitute one half of 1 per cent of the assessed valuation for $400 000 lost yeas 18 nays 49

Weir moved to make it 1 per cent., lost yeas very faint

Section 1 was adopted

Section 2 was adopted as follows In addition to the above limited power to contract debts, the state may contract debts to repel invasion suppress insurrection or to defend the state in war but the money arising from the contracting of such debts shall be applied to the purpose for which it was raised and to no other purpose whatever

SECTION THREE ADOPTED

After a Vigorous Attempt to Have It Stricken Out.

Section 3 was taken up, consisting of the first portion of Minor's substitute above printed, up to the words "provided that," and an additional clause providing for the repeal of such law

Turner moved to strike out all of such section except the first sentence. He did not believe in treating the state like a little child. If legislatures are not to be trusted, then representative government is a failure We are trying to treat the state as the little people of Lilliput treated Gulliver, tying every hair of his head and every limb and finger to the ground, so that he could not move

Stiles, of Tacoma, heartily endorsed this view and did not believe in such frequent elections or asking the people to go through an election every time a public building might be wanted

Sullivan, of Whitman, moved to amend by striking out the whole section

Griffitts planted himself on the side of the voice of the people, and preferred consulting them when their property was to be taken for million dollar state houses or anything of that sort.

Cosgrove favored striking out all that referred to repealing such a law after it was once passed and opposed so many elections.

Dunbar believed in trusting the legislature, and was getting heartily sick and tired of so much talk about consulting the dear people

Sturdevant opposed striking out.

Weir favored striking out, and would go a great deal further if he could to prevent so much legislation getting into the constitution

Power didn't believe that retention of this wise provision in the constitution would endanger it when the people came to vote on it

Stiles made this point that as the section now stands the legislature can erect as many public buildings as it likes if it only levies tax enough to pay for them and also this additional point, that the enacting act of congress distinctly puts control of state lands into the hands of the legislature so that the people cannot have anything to do with it

Griffitts asked if expenditure of the proceeds of the sale of tide lands said to be worth $10 000 000 was not also in control of the legislature

Stiles said certainly the legislature could spend it though he could say nothing as to the correctness of that valuation

Browne defended the report of the committee and argued for the retention of the section, closing the debate with an able speech of nine minutes duration

Turner's motion to strike out was put and failed—yeas 19 nays 58

Stiles moved to strike out the clause authorizing the legislature to repeal the laws mentioned in the foregoing portions of the section He claimed this was pure and simple redundancy of no possible effect, for the legislature can do now what that clause professes to permit, The motion prevailed—yeas 57 nays 17

Minor moved to strike out all relating to the publication of notices in newspapers The motion was lost—yeas 22 nays 54

The section was adopted

SECTIONS FOUR AND FIVE.

Both Are Adopted After Brief Discussion

Section four was read "no moneys shall ever be paid out of the treasury of this state or any of its funds or any of the funds under its management except in pursuance of an appropriation by law nor unless such payment be made within two years next after the passage of such appropriation act and every such law making a new appropriation or continuing or reviving an appropriation shall distinctly specify the sum appropriated and the object to which it is to be applied and it shall not be sufficient for such law to refer to any other law to fix such sum

Griffitts asked as to the meaning of the two years clause

Browne said that was simply to prevent any legislature from authorizing expenditures to be made any further ahead than two years and would give reasons for that if Griffitts wanted them

Griffitts did

Browne said that despite prohibitions it was possible for a legislature to run a state into debt beyond the limit of $400 000 Under this same clause in California a debt was created of $1 500,000, through a plan of postponed payments which the courts sustained

T M Reed said this clause also prevented the state from paying interest on money lying idle under specific appropriations.

Stiles moved to amend so that each of such two-year periods should begin on May 1 following date of passage The motion prevailed and the section was adopted.

Section 5 was taken up "The credit of the state shall not in any manner be given or loaned to or in aid of any individual, association, company or corporation

Sullivan of Whitman moved to strike it out, because this same subject was treated in section 12 of the article recommended by the committee on corporations

Turner proposed to hold on to what they had, as far as it was good

The motion failed.

Griffitts thought this section would not cover donations and proposed an amendment to meet that point.

Dunbar and Buchanan thought the words "in any manner given" were sufficient, So did the convention for it voted down Griffitts's motion

Section 5 was adopted

COUNTY AND CITY INDEBTEDNESS

The Maximum Increased From One to One and a Half Per Cent.

Section 6 was taken up 'No county city town, school district, or other municipal corporation, shall become indebted in any manner or for any purpose exceeding 1 per centum of the taxable property in such county, city, town school district, or other municipal corporation, without the assent of three-fifths of the voters therein voting, at an election to be held for that purpose, nor in cases requiring such assent shall the total indebtedness at any time exceed 5 per cent. on the value of taxable property therein to be ascertained by the last assessment for state and county purposes previous to the incurring of such indebtedness, Provided that no part of the indebtedness allowed in this section, shall be incurred for any purpose other than strictly county, city town school district or other municipal purposes; Provided further that any city or town with such assent may be allowed to become indebted to a larger amount but not exceeding 5 per cent. additional, for supplying such city or town with water, artificial light and sewers, when the works for supplying such water, light and sewers shall be owned and controlled by the municipality'

Godman moved to strike out "voters" and insert "property taxpayers"

Power proposed to add "qualified electors" to that, and Godman accepted that amendment.

On Godman's motion the vote stood ayes 23, noes 38 so it failed

Stiles asked Browne how city authorities were to obtain the amount of county indebtedness officially

Browne—By going to the county records

Stiles—I give notice that I shall offer an amendment to that.

Sullivan of Whitman, moved to increase 1 per centum to 1½ per centum

Warner explained how this measure would be a benefit, at least to cities.

Sullivan, of Tacoma, approved this motion

Gowey said Olympia needed this provision, also

Browne thought 1 per cent was sufficient debt for all ordinary purposes Greater indebtedness could be arranged for by the latter provisions of the section.

The motion prevailed—yeas 40 nays 5

Stiles moved to amend by inserting between "indebtedness" and "provided" the words, "except that in incorporated cities, the assessment shall be taken from the last assessment for city purposes."

Browne consented to this and the amendment was made

Sullivan, of Tacoma offered the following as an additional clause "That the limitations in this section shall not include any existing indebtedness or apply to or affect any existing contracts"

Griffitts opposed this as simply adding 1½ per cent of debt to every existing city

Durie said he was opposed to it.

Lillis was also opposed.

The amendment failed

Turner moved to strike out 'three-fifths' in the first sentence and substitute "majority" and argued in favor of the change instancing the case of the Spokane Falls water works, as yet unfinished and which ought not to be placed under such a restriction

Blalock moved to amend to make it read, "majority of taxpayers"

The amendment carried by a vote of yeas 34, nays 30

Griffitts said this made any property taxpayer an elector on that subject For instance a person residing in New York might own property in Spokane Falls and so be entitled to vote.

Browne said the three fifths rule was a protection against the floating population, and really required only a majority of the bona fide residents

McReavy moved to make it "resident taxpayer," but was ruled out of order at this point.

Kinnear favored three-fifths.

Turner now hoped his amendment would fail, since 'property taxpayers' had been added. His experience was that property taxpayers were the worst old fogies when it came to making improvements

Turner's motion as amended by Blalock was then put to a vote, and failed by a decided viva voce vote

The section was adopted

THE QUESTION OF SUBSIDIES.

An Earnest Debate on the Point that Interests Walla Walla.

Section 7 was taken up "No county shall hereafter give or loan its money property or credit to or in aid of any individual company corporation or association unless two thirds of the property taxpayers thereof being legal electors therein and voting thereon, vote therefor at an election to be held for such purpose And in no case shall the sum so voted exceed the aggregate of 4 per centum of the assessed valuation for county and state purposes, as shown by the assessment roll preceding such election Approved by the following members of the committee N G Blalock R T Sturdevant T M Reed, C T Fay David L Durie

The minority report recommends the following sections Sec 7—No county city town or other municipal corporation shall hereafter give any money or property or loan its money or credit to or in aid of any individual association company or corporation, or become directly or indirectly the owner of stock in or bonds of any association company or corporation. Approved by the following members of the committee J J Browne James A Hungate Charles T Coey and N A Fairweather

Weir moved that the minority report be adopted

Dunbar moved to amend by substituting the majority report

Crowley vigorously portrayed the ills under which Walla Walla county had suffered at the hands of the O R & N Co and the great benefit being derived and to be derived from the construction now going on of another railroad which enabled the farmers of that county and of Columbia county to ship their products to Puget sound—a benefit so great that in one instance alone a farmer of Walla Walla county had saved $3000 in freight money on a single crop Hence he argued strongly in favor of adopting the majority report as a perfectly safe scheme since the needs of the property tax payers must first approve the proposition and even then they could not run into debt above 4 per cent of their valuation

Power asked if the gentleman (Crowley) was satisfied with section 7 as it now stood

Crowley—Yes just as it stands

Weir believed this tendency was vicious and would be productive of harm in the future It was right to prohibit a state from lending its credit to any corporation and right also to prohibit counties from doing the same Missouri's experience in voting an indebtedness of some thirteen millions in aid of railroads was referred to and the opinion expressed that, although the people of Walla Walla county think just now that they needed this privilege he was satisfied that it ought not to be given them It wasn't always safe to trust the people They got excited sometimes, and it was wrong to give them a chance to saddle a future generation with such a debt This tendency along the line of this railroad in Walla Walla county ought to be checked If the inhabitants wanted new railroads let it pay for them and not charge it upon the future He hoped Walla Walla would get all they wanted but he was opposed to this principle

Dunbar said this was a proposition in which his constituency was largely interested The assumption by this convention of the right to control all the business interests of the state was on a par with the assumption of the gentleman from Jefferson county (Weir) when he presumed to tell this convention about the needs of Walla Walla when all the delegates from Walla Walla were here and ready to present them He described the position of the farmers in Klickitat county who were subject to the O R & N Co without competition, and who lost thousands of bushels of wheat every year When they could get transportation it cost them about 19 cents per bushel to get it to Portland whereas they could get it to the Northern Pacific railroad for 8 cents If a subsidy could be given to a railroad company, a saving of $55 000 in a single year to the farmers of the Klickitat valley in this one item, and including hauling etc it amounted to $75 000 in a single year' Under this course we could only in any case burden ourselves to the extent of $60 000 and here, without any theory at all but a demonstration of hard facts is $95 000 of it saved the very first year, to say nothing about the other great and inestimable benefits which flow from the presence of railroads in a community In early days without restriction in the amount and by a simple majority vote it was possible for counties to overburden themselves, but not now under these restrictions

Griffitts had during the last few days known that the delegates would have to decide on this question and he believed he echoed the sentiments of every man here when he said they sincerely sympathized with the citizens of Walla Walla in the recital of their grievances and further voiced their sentiments when he said that if a proper measure for Walla Walla's relief could be adopted they would cheerfully adopt it But they could not vote for a vicious principle and injure the general interests of the state for all time to come by a clause which would allow a two thirds vote of the property tax payers all over the state to take away 4 per cent of the property of the other one third for the benefit of a private corporation No doubt Klickitat county was in trouble but relief was at hand The Pasco Goldendale & Columbia Valley railway was coming He then read from THE OREGONIAN of July 3 a report of a meeting and election of officers of the above named road and of their plans for speedily building that road so that this trouble in Klickitat is simply a temporary trouble, and not strong enough to warrant the convention in adopting such a wrong principle of government There is a vast difference between the people voting to build a public building, or water works and in voting to give a subsidy to a private individual or corporation The principle of submitting to a vote of the people is that they are to be allowed to vote on matters of spending the common money for public works but not upon the question of taking private property for private purposes. Further he had no doubt that this O R & N Co had grievously oppressed the Walla Walla valley All railroads did that whenever they got a chance but this convention had no right to authorize private property to be taken away from its owner to be applied to relieving this distress without any compensation whatever to those owners

Lindsley moved that the committee rise and report progress, so voted

Mr Sullivan resumed the chair.

Dyer reported progress and leave was granted to sit again

On motion of Minor the privilege of the floor were granted to Hon. W C Squire.

Gowey was granted leave of absence for Thursday

At 6 P M the convention adjourned to Thursday morning at 9 o clock

OPINION AROUND WALLA WALLA

The New Constitution Is Not Favorably Regarded.

WALLA WALLA July 31—A canvass by your correspondent among farmers during the past few days failed to find a single one favorable to the new constitution thus far made. A majority of the business men talked with also object. As matters now stand, the constitution promises to be voted down when submitted The objection seems to be not only on account of the evident increased taxation but a belief that in general the convention is exceeding its powers and endeavoring to assume legislative functions.

The prohibitionists suffragists and radical religionists will surely oppose the document The general belief is that too much time is taken to formulate the same and too many buncombe speeches being made.

THE IDAHO JUDICIARY

Constitutional Provisions Formulated for a Supreme and Minor Courts

BOISE CITY, Idaho July 31—After disposing of routine business the Idaho constitutional convention considered this morning the judiciary department. The supreme court is made to consist of three judges to be elected by the people for a term of six years. It has original jurisdiction in claims against the state but its decisions are only recommendatory There will be five district judges to serve four years Special criminal courts may be established in cities, the clerk of the supreme court is appointed by the court and each county is required to elect a clerk of the district court The salaries of the supreme and district judges were fixed at $3000 district attorney $2500 Probate judges may have civil cases involving not over $500 and have concurrent jurisdiction with justices in criminal cases Jurisdiction of justices of the peace exists in cases involving not over $300 Judges must be at least 30 years of age, learned in law and electors of the district for two years The judicial districts are divided as follows First district, Shoshone and Kootenai counties Second, Latah, Nez Perces and Idaho, Third, Washington, Ada, Owyhee and Boise, Fourth, Cassia, Elmore, Logan and Alturas Fifth, Bear Lake Bingham, Oneida, Custer and Lemhi

Amendments to the constitution must be agreed to by two-thirds of the members of each house of the legislature and ratified by popular vote

The convention considered on second reading the bill of [illegible] without concluding, adjourned to to-morrow morning.

IN DAKOTA.

The Woman Suffragists Gain a Victory at Bismarck.

BISMARCK Dak, July 31—The report of the committee on elective franchise was considered again to-day, and the woman suffrage question came up The advocates thereof asked that the legislature be given power to extend suffrage to women, and it was upon this point the debate hinged. Several delegates insisted on having the question settled by a vote of the people. The convention agreed to give the legislature power to extend.

NOTHING DONE AT SIOUX FALLS.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

The Severest Earthquake Shock In years.

THE ARREST OF AN EMBEZZLER

Mrs Ferry Homeward Bound—A Frightful Death—Stage Robbery—Mexican Cruelty—Other California Events

SAN FRANCISCO July 31—One of the heaviest shocks of earthquake felt in this city for years occurred here about 4 15 o clock this morning People were awakened by the rattling of windows and shaking of buildings No damage is reported

The clocks at the Palace hotel and Occidental hotel were stopped and the great clock at the ferries on this and the Oakland side of the bay stopped The regulator at the foot of Market street was similarly affected

It having been suggested that the earthquake was the end of the wave of that trembler which destroyed Kiusiu in the Japanese Empire day before yesterday Professor Davidson superintendent of the coast survey was asked for his opinion of that theory It was too short to be anything more than a local shock he replied It is a great deal more probable that the disturbances at Susanville are responsible for it This is true since there have been reported very frequently of late.

DEATH FROM THE SHOCK

SAN FRANCISCO July 31 Addy H Cummins the linguist formerly private secretary to General Manager Towne, of the Southern Pacific died in Oakland this morning, it is supposed from effects of the earthquake last night He has been suffering from heart disease for some time

AN EMBEZZLER ARRESTED.

Promissory Notes Valued at Over $95 000 Recovered.

SAN FRANCISCO July 31—Captain Lees of the detective force has received information from Victoria that William Leith Ross has been arrested there Ross was note teller at the Nevada bank in this city and obtained leave of absence a few days ago A shortage of $1500 was found in his accounts and promissory notes valued at over $95 000 are also missing The money and notes were found in his possession when arrested Vice president Bigelow, of the Nevada bank, will go to Victoria to appear against Ross.

HE IS WELL CONNECTED

An accountant of the Nevada bank was seen in reference to the runaway He said Ross's family, who were all in Scotland, were well to do people and that Ross himself was deemed to be a gentleman The only bad habit he had was associating with one H R J Hutton, who was as he called him, a bad egg He was repeatedly cautioned against this, and would agree to shake him off, but he could not seem to get away from him

The accountant said that the total amount of cash made away with would probably be nearly $2.00 The $95,000 in notes, he stated, would be absolutely worthless, they being long over due and were held by the bank simply for collection They can not be negotiated in any way

Speaking of Ross, an evening paper says 'The escapade of William Leith Ross and his boon companion, the festive Hutton will not create much surprise in society circles which they patronized during their brief but exciting career in town. Both belonged to the gay fraternity of high rollers, who manage to eke out a precarious existence on a small sized salary while keeping rapid pace by the gilded youths of their acquaintance among the upper ten Ross is a society man who arrived on this coast about six years ago His relatives at home are said to be highly respectable but whether they are inhabitants of a lowland manse or a highland castle it is difficult to say Like many other gentlemen who cultivate broad checks and an aristocratic drawl on their arrival in this democratic community, historical reminiscences of ancestral birth and early career are found in the case of Ross to suit the complexion of his temporary associates The predilection he developed in time for appropriating stray property favors the idea of his descent from some borderer who scrupled not when favorable opportunity offered for cattle lifting

For some time after his arrival he was employed in the capacity of clerk at Virginia City, finally graduating as a full fledged bank official in 1884 when he received the appointment of exchange teller in the Nevada bank of this city His conduct while there was not such as to create any suspicion as to his honesty although it was generally well known that his ambition to shine as a bright and particular star in society circles was only tempered by a lack of means to outshine his wealthier rivals in the struggle for supremacy

MAKING RESTITUTION.

Captain Lees, of the detective force received a telegram from Victoria this afternoon stating that Ross had turned over all the promissory notes he had stolen He also stated that if given time he would communicate with his parents who would make up the cash deficiency

MRS. FERRY HOMEWARD BOUND

A Reconciliation With Her Husband Considered Probable

SAN FRANCISCO July 31—Mrs C P Ferry, wife of the 'Duke of Tacoma' left for Tacoma to-night, for the purpose, it was stated, of being reconciled to her husband from whom she separated in Paris a couple of months ago in a most sensational manner Since Mrs Ferry's arrival here she has been stopping at one of the down town hotels. Soon after she filed her petition for divorce on grounds of cruelty and desertion, a mutual friend of herself and husband came here from Tacoma and remained some time, having several consultations with the wife. This gentleman, who is said to have once been associated with Ferry in business, left on Saturday last, and is believed to have sent telegrams received by Mrs. Ferry on Tuesday At any rate, it is believed that steps looking to a reconciliation were made by Ferry and favorably received by his wife. She took with her baggage which she had sent here direct from Paris.

A FRIGHTFUL DEATH.

SAN FRANCISCO July 31—C. A. Robb, a kalsominer, was engaged in whitewashing the interior of one of the Contra Costa Laundry Company's new buildings a Oakland and in order to reach the ceiling he stood on the platform near the shafting where a large leather belt was revolving at a high rate of speed. Robb's coat became caught, and he was lifted from his feet and carried around and around by the belt at a frightful velocity Every time he was swung under the ceiling Robb's arms and legs were pounded against the rafters until they became mere pulp. It is estimated he was whirled around 150 times before the machinery, which runs the belt was stopped Robb soon died in great agony

A Former Editor Suing to Recover Some Back Salary.

SAN FRANCISCO July 31—The suit of D T Stanley, formerly of Monmouth Or, against Elder G W Sweeney, of the Christian church, was on trial before a Judge and Jury in Oakland to day, Something over a year ago, Stanley was publishing a paper in the interests of the Christian denomination in Oregon Gano Kennedy purchased the paper and merged it with a paper then published in Oakland, calling the new paper the Christian Independent with Rev Mr Sweeney as editor in chief, Professor W W Durham, of Washington college, as office editor and Kennedy himself, as business manager There was some trouble after a little time over business matters, finally drawing into it Mrs Alexander and her son who got control, and Sweeney gave up his editorship and connection with the institution It survived only a short time and a printer's supply firm attached it and absorbed it. Stanley claimed Rev Sweeney was financially interested in the concern and brought suit to recover $600 The case has not yet been concluded.

OPIUM SMUGGLING.

A Record of Arrests and Convictions in San Francisco During Ten Years.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—During the past ten years 106 persons were arrested charged with smuggling or aiding in the smuggling of opium into this port. Out of the 106 cases only seventeen persons were sentenced to serve time in prison, and their average sentence was eleven months. But thirty two prisoners were fined, the average amount being $68. This shows a total of forty nine cases out of 106 where guilt was proved. In four cases sentence was suspended by the court, twelve prisoners were found not guilty, fourteen cases are pending, while in twenty six cases a nolle prosequi was entered. The amount of bail given in the 106 cases were, in many instances, strangely inconsistent.

THE AFFAIRS OF ENGLAND.

Lord Salisbury Takes a Hopeful View of the Conditions in Europe.

LONDON July 31—Lord Salisbury, speaking at the annual ministerial banquet at the Mansion house this evening said that England's aim in foreign affairs was always peace with honor. The clouds of war still overcast Europe but concerning the immediate danger of a conflict, he regarded the vast preparations that have been made as a great security of peace Events in Egypt did not menace the permanent prosperity of that country The rebellion on the frontier would be suppressed. England had entered into engagements not to abandon Egypt till the latter was capable to maintain her own government in the face of her foes, and these engagements England would assuredly fulfill. Referring to Crete, he did not consider there was any need to fear the present movement would lead to European disturbance; he had not the remotest desire of seeing England in possession of Crete. Referring briefly to Ireland, he held that the result of government action was bringing order and content throughout the country, and if ever any section of peasantry believed their interest lay rather in defying than in obeying the law, that illusion was rapidly disappearing

LITTLE FEAR OF WAR.

Opinion in Washington of the Recent Seizures.

A STATEMENT BY MR BLAINE

The Administration Is Simply Executing a Law of Congress—The Canadians Are Somewhat Excited

WASHINGTON, July 31.—An inquiry at the department of state this morning was met by the statement that absolutely no information had been received here respecting the seizures of the Triumph and Black Diamond except that contained in the Associated Press dispatches.

In a conversation with a prominent official he said that whatever might have been the policy of the last administration it was evident that the present administration did not look with disfavor upon the seizure of British vessels suspected of poaching on the United States fishing grounds. The case of the seizure and search of the Triumph, afterwards released because no sealskins were found, this official intimated might be of a more serious matter than the seizure and [illegible] of the Black Diamond, for there is involved the right of the United States to search [illegible] vessels outside of what it concedes to be the limits of jurisdiction of the United States. The government, [illegible] said, claims that [illegible] have been reckoned [illegible] settlement of the question, after [illegible] is to be one of jurisdiction.

VIEWS OF OTHER OFFICIALS

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Tichenor, in a talk with a reporter to-night about the Behring sea seizures, said: "There will be no change [illegible] about this administration [illegible] of the revenue cutter on Behring sea [illegible] have plain, unequivocal orders [illegible] every vessel, American or British, found violating the law. Great Britain claims the right to the fisheries [illegible] but Great Britain is in the habit of claiming everything. The idea of redress or indemnity under the circumstances is absurd. The matter will be treated as a small trespass."

Commissioner of Customs Holliday said: "The only trouble is we have not enough vessels [illegible] Behring sea properly to [illegible] the fisheries. No men-of-war, I think, are on hand in Behring sea. If anything is done by [illegible] it will probably be an offset to our claim to the Canadian fisheries."

MR. BLAINE INTERVIEWED.

He Says the Administration Is Simply Carrying Out the Directions of the Last Congress.

BANGOR, Me., July 31.—Secretary Blaine passed through the city this evening. A reporter called his attention to the declaration in a Boston paper to-day to the effect that it would be impossible for the national government to sustain the pretension of Secretary Blaine that the Behring sea is distinctly American water.

The secretary simply remarked it might be well for the paper in question to indicate the occasion, official or unofficial, where he had said anything at all on that point.

Mr. Blaine further stated that everything done on the fur seal question since the 4th of last March was in literal compliance with the directions contained in the act of congress approved by President Cleveland on the last day of his term.

OPINION IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Approval of the Action of the United States Government.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—The announcement of the seizure of the British sealer Black Diamond by the United States steamer Rush in Behring sea, receives but little consideration in this city. "Statements about war and future trouble with England are given little hearing," said a prominent Englishman.

"Although our business is carried on in direct opposition to the Alaska Commercial Company," said one of the leading salmon packing men this morning, "I believe in the present action of the United States government. The fisheries should be protected. The government has taken the proper step, but should have done so long before. This British and American pirates have decreased the number of our seals in Behring sea at least one-third since 1883, and they will totally extinguish them in two years more if the United States government does not continue to arrest them. England in taking up this matter of protection to its Victoria sealers will have to remember that 2000 British subjects receive employment at the hands of the Alaska Commercial Company by its sending skins to London to be prepared. American sealers who are at present in the North do not receive much sympathy from people of this city. The class of men employed by them are not what would be desired in defending or encouraging the interest of the United States in the North. Vessels leave here generally with a crew of [illegible] hands that don't hesitate at anything, and are always ready for a [illegible]. They leave with a small cargo of provisions and a load of whisky, which, as has frequently been proven, is freely distributed amongst the natives and leads to their demoralization."

AT VICTORIA

The Matter Has Been Placed Before the Dominion Authorities

VICTORIA, B. C., July 31.—Great indignation is felt here over the seizure of the schooner Black Diamond in Behring sea by the United States revenue cutter Rush. A public meeting will probably be held and resolutions passed [illegible] sion to the imperial parliament, asking that the imperial government interfere on behalf of the British vessels engaged in the sealing trade.

It is believed here that as but one man has been placed in charge of the Black Diamond her captain will not obey the Rush's orders, but will sail for Victoria instead of Sitka.

[illegible]

VICTORIA, B. C., July 31.—[illegible] is [illegible] new in the Behring sea seizure. The matter has been fully placed before the Ottawa authorities. What action they will take is of course unknown.

AT OTTAWA.

An Appeal Will Be Made to the Imperial Government.

OTTAWA, July 31.—The cabinet yesterday considered the seizure of the British vessels by the United States cruiser in Behring sea. A demand will at once be made on the British government for two vessels to proceed to Behring sea to protect Canadian vessels from the United States cutters. Bonnell believes that several of the sealing schooners that sailed from Victoria are heavily armed, and will be able to protect themselves, as they started with the intention of not being taken without a desperate struggle.

THE REPORT DENIED

OTTAWA, July 31.—The report that the cabinet has considered the Behring sea [illegible]. The minister of customs has telegraphed to Victoria for a report. As soon as it comes [illegible] a strong remonstrance will be submitted to the imperial government.

The report that the Canadian government had urged the adoption of a retaliatory policy in regard to the seizure of the schooner Black Diamond is untrue. The cabinet, after discussing the matter, forwarded two telegrams from Victoria to the governor general with a request that they be forwarded to the colonial office. The cabinet also requested that her majesty's government should adopt prompt measures to protect British subjects on the high sea.

THE PROPAGATION OF FISH.

Work of the U. S. Commission During the Last Fiscal Year

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The United States fish commission has issued [illegible] report of its operation during the past fiscal year. From it the following figures are taken: Of brook trout eggs there were 207,000 sent to different state fish commissioners. During the season 1,518,000 rainbow trout eggs were shipped to various state commissioners for planting in suitable waters. Lake trout to the number of 50,000 were distributed during the season, 205,000 going to the state commissioners of California. Salmon fry to the number of 5,000,000 were deposited in the Clackamas river and its tributaries, 4,000,000 in the Little Sacramento and tributaries and 1,500,000 in the McCloud river. In the deposition of Atlantic salmon New York got [illegible] eggs numbering 600,000 were distributed [illegible] eral state commissioners. Of [illegible] were supplied for private [illegible] were also deposited in the public waters of the country about [illegible],000 of this species [illegible] of Massachusetts 2,000,000 cod [illegible] pollock were [illegible] white fish fry [illegible] Duluth stations [illegible] public waters of Idaho, Washington territory and Oregon during the season. Of [illegible] 101,768,000 [illegible] were [illegible]

CONGRESSMAN McKINLEY

He Is Confident He Will Be the Speaker of the Next House

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The [illegible] speaker of the [illegible] is Representative McKinley of Ohio. He [illegible] been taking a [illegible] hono- [illegible] will hereafter [illegible] McKinley is [illegible] cess, and does not [illegible] bolt of Southern [illegible] caucus. McKinley will take an active part in the Ohio campaign this fall and [illegible] of the republican ticket, both state and [illegible] ture.

ADULTERATED TEAS

Customs Officers Instructed To Be on the Lookout for Them.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Secretary Tracy has received a letter from the secretary of state enclosing copies of a dispatch received from the United States consul at Amoy, calling attention to the inferior quality of much Amoy Oolong tea exported to the United States. The secretary has issued a circular letter to the customs officers in Washington. He says: "The statements of the consul and the documents inclosed indicate a well recognized fact among dealers in China that Amoy Oolong is generally dirty and adulterated, carelessly picked, poorly cured and their reputation is so wide that all market reports are closed to them. The consul strongly recommends that no invoices in Oolong be admitted into the United States without first being rigidly inspected. He further states that these strictures do not apply to Tamsuy or Formosa Oolong teas mostly shipped via Amoy. Your attention is called to this matter in order that strict scrutiny may be made at your port of importations of this grade of teas with a view to prevent the admission of any which may be found to be in violation of the act prohibiting the importation of adulterated and spurious teas."

THE PENSION INVESTIGATION.

Nothing of a Sensational Nature Discovered

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The committee recently appointed by Secretary Noble to investigate the alleged illegal ratings of pensions by the pension bureau has completed the first week of its labors. An examination covering six months will probably be completed the coming week, when a report will be made to Secretary Noble.

It is learned from parties believed to have knowledge that during December last under Commissioner Black's administration there were found about 1,000 reissues of pensions, and during the month of May, under Commissioner Tanner's administration, 1500 reissues. These reissues cover all classes, and include all cases of rerating, which average from 3 to 4 per cent of the whole number of reissues. It is stated that re-ratings will probably not average more than $2 to $4 per month, but arrears in many cases were carried back to the date of the original application [illegible]

It is asserted that the committee has discovered nothing whatever of a sensational character.

MAJOR JONES'S REPORT

Appropriations Recommended for Improvements Next Year

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Major W. A. Jones, in charge of the improvements of rivers in Oregon authorized by the river and harbor bill [illegible] of which centre at Portland, has [illegible] port of operations during the past year. He suggests the following appropriations for the next year:

Columbia and lower Willamette rivers below Portland, including [illegible] at Skamokawa bar, and [illegible] $[illegible]

Willamette river above Portland, $10,000.

Upper Columbia and Snake rivers, Oregon and Washington territory, $[illegible]

Major Jones submits with the report a project for overcoming the obstructions in the Columbia river at The Dalles and Celilo by means of a boat railway. He also recommends a permanent annual appropriation of $5000 for snagging operations on the Columbia and tributaries.

THE RAILROAD COMPROMISE.

The Southern Pacific Will Stay in the Association Ninety Days Longer

CHICAGO, July 31.—The Transcontinental Association finally succeeded to-day in staving off a disaster that has threatened and securing an extension of existence for three months at least. The dispute between the Southern Pacific and the Canadian Pacific was settled by a compromise. The latter, though still refusing to abrogate its differentials entirely, agreed to reduce them to the extent of 2½@15 per cent, which is a greater concession than was offered last week. The Southern Pacific accepted the proposition on trial for ninety days, agreeing to suspend its notices of withdrawal for that time. The Northern Pacific will hold its withdrawal notice in abeyance pending the negotiations now in progress with the Union Pacific.

THE AMERICAN ROADS A UNIT

Said a leading member of the association to a representative of the Associated Press this afternoon: "The daily papers are all in error in the statements to the effect that the question of differentials is merely between the Southern and Canadian Pacific. The fact is the American roads are a unit on the question of differentials."

AN EXPRESS TRAIN WRECKED.

Serious Collision With a Freight Train—The Number Dead Not Known.

CINCINNATI, July 31.—The fast passenger train that left Hamilton at 7 o'clock to-night going west collided with a freight train east bound two miles east of Oxford. The place is remote from a telegraph station and definite news is hard to obtain. It is known however that it was a bad smashup. Fireman Lee and Baggagemaster Fields were killed outright. A Mr. Day is dying and Engineer Dougherty and Fireman Breman are severely hurt. Seven injured were brought to Hamilton by a relief train late to-night. It is believed the number killed and injured will not be greater than fifteen.

LATER—2 A. M.—A dispatch from Oxford now says Fireman Caldwell, of the freight engine, was killed, and Engineer Dougherty, of the passenger, seriously injured. Fireman Doty and Baggageman Pugh each had a leg broken. Not a passenger was seriously hurt, although many were badly shaken up.

THE CHICAGO "TIMES."

Another Change in Its Management, This Time for the Better

CHICAGO, July 31.—The Daily News says: The affairs of the Chicago Times, which has recently been the subject of a good deal of newspaper comment, underwent another change this afternoon. Joseph Dunlap took entire charge of the editorial and news department of the paper, his occupancy of that position signalizing the complete rout of J. J. West's interests. Dunlap for the last two years has represented the interests of Mrs. Storey, widow of the late editor of the Times, and when the West management became such that he no longer cared to be associated with it he resigned from the paper. Messrs. Huiskamp and others, who are largely interested in the paper, tendered Dunlap the editorial direction of the Times and he assumed the duties of the place to-day. He is a newspaper man of wide experience. Mr. John [illegible], formerly of the associated press, has been appointed city editor.

THE FLOOD IN NEW JERSEY.

Great Damage Done in the Cities of Paterson and Plainfield

PATERSON, N. J., July 31.—The lower part of the city is partially submerged. Huge boulders have been washed down into the lower streets and front yards. Blocks of street curbing have been washed out and the sidewalks undermined. A culvert in the county bridge has been washed away. The Passaic river is rising rapidly. The Paterson mills along the river bank have water in the cellars and wheel pits. Operations will be suspended. The dam at Haledon is liable to burst any moment.

THE DAMAGE AT PLAINFIELD

PLAINFIELD, N. J., July 31.—The damage by the flood is greater than at first supposed. Eight dams were washed away. In Plainfield fifteen large brick buildings were undermined and other damage aggregating $150,000 was done in the country. All the bridges are swept away.

HIS PIPE WAS IN HIS POCKET.

A Sudden Death Fills a Family With Superstitious Horror

DETROIT, Mich., July 31.—"Well, I don't care who it is. Here with this uplifted hand to heaven, I pray that my creator will paralyze the man who has my pipe," said Patrick Gallagher, who felt in his pocket and could not find his beloved pipe. Before his utterances had died away, Gallagher felt a severe twitching of the heart and complained of feeling ill. A doctor was hastily sent for, who said he had received a stroke of paralysis. The physician pronounced the case a critical one and death ensued in less than twelve hours.

The grief stricken family were at loss to understand his sudden death. However in looking through his clothes removed at the time of the paralytic stroke they were filled with superstitious horror, for in one of his outside pockets was found the missing pipe, which had worked its way into the lining.

DYNAMITE IN A THRESHING MACHINE.

The Thresher Blown to Atoms and Three Men and Two Teams Killed.

NEW YORK, July 31.—A special from Anderson says: A stick of dynamite was fed into a threshing machine in the western part of this county yesterday. The machine was blown to pieces. Three men and two teams were killed. Latest advices indicate that an old feud had recently been renewed and some of the parties concerned put the dynamite in a sheaf of wheat. It had been announced that there would be a contest between rival machines [illegible] and assembled. Fortunately at the time the dynamite was put in the [illegible] most of the people were some distance away. The report is not fully authenticated.

HEADQUARTERS AT PORTLAND.

The New General Western Freight Agent of the Union Pacific

OMAHA, Neb., July 31.—F. I. Briggs, general agent of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha at this place, has tendered his resignation to take effect to-morrow. About August 15 Briggs will go to the Union Pacific in the capacity of general Western freight agent with headquarters at Portland. He will be succeeded by W. D. [illegible], present agent of the Northwestern system, who in turn will be succeeded by John [illegible], at present local cashier at the freight depot of the same company.

TAXATION IN MONTANA.

The Article in the New Constitution Which Regulates This Matter

HELENA, July 31.—The convention to-day considered the article on revenue and taxation and finally adopted it. It exempts all church and public property and libraries. The legislature may pass general laws for the taxation of any property, mines are to be taxed according to the value paid the United States for the same, machinery is subject to special taxation, private property is not to be sold for taxes, public corporations limit of taxation is 3 mills if the assessed property is over $100,000,000, 2½ if over $300,000,000, 1½ mills on the dollar.

San Francisco Market Review.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Cereals are not so strong this week as last week. Wheat has dropped to $1.31¼ as the top price for No. 1 shipping and is very dull, as buyers are now holding off. The foreign wheat markets have fallen steadily for some days.

Corn is quiet at high prices.

Wool is weak and very dull. Dealers say if the demand does not improve within the next week or ten days sellers may possibly have to accept lower prices to work off receipts.

Oats are in fair supply and quiet. Arrivals of the new crop of oats are thus far light.

New buckwheat has appeared but no one appears to want it.

Bran and middlings are in good demand at the recent advance.

Grain bags have declined during the week, and at the close are depressed at 7¼@7½.

Produce was uninteresting last week, fluctuations being few and narrow.

Receipts of hay were large and medium grades suffered somewhat in consequence.

Butter ruled firm all the week and fancy dairies even advanced 1 cent per pound. At this time of the year when cows begin to dry up, choice butter generally advances until it gets so high that people begin to buy pickled roll freely. Then it stops as a rule, though there have been exceptions. Some remarkably cheap eastern [illegible] is being received here and some makes are not ten days old when landed here.

Choice eggs continue firm, but the middle and lower grades are quiet and not over steady.

Hops are utterly nominal as dealers say there is no trading and no [illegible] at all.

The mint mark is showing not [illegible] change. Stocks of Liverpool salt [illegible] lands are whittled down fine and the market is accordingly firm. However [illegible] at this rate.

All kinds of [illegible] are stronger and several have advanced but [illegible] arrivals from the Hawaiian Islands are expected.

[illegible] and [illegible] have twice been marked down this year [illegible]

RAILROAD FOR TILLAMOOK.

Mr Maxwell Is Here Trying to Induce the Local Companies to Build

Does the Northern Pacific Intend to Abandon Kalama for Coffin Rock? [illegible] Adams and Family [illegible] Day

Tillamook county [illegible] a railroad connection with the outside world [illegible] made rapid progress in the past year [illegible] people have come to the conclusion that it is about [illegible] at the scratch of the locomotive has broken the monotony of their efforts.

J. W. Maxwell, who represented the county in the lower house of the legislature, is at present here to do what he can in the way of [illegible] a railroad. He is not inclined to say much about his mission.

"Since my arrival in Portland I have had conferences with the O. R. & N. [illegible] companies, and William Reid of the Portland & Willamette Valley Railroad Company."

"Have you accomplished anything?"

"I have had talks with these parties and have been treated fairly."

That is all Mr. Maxwell would say.

"What inducements do you offer a railroad?" was asked.

"We have a vast amount of timber and coal which only awaits transportation facilities to be moved. Then we have numerous other products which would find a market if we had a railroad. Tillamook county has the business and we are looking for the man who has the railroad."

"Do you desire connection with any particular railroad or town?"

"We have no preference."

"How much would it cost to build a line to Tillamook?"

"I have not figured on the cost. There is a natural railroad pass from Tillamook to the Willamette valley, via the Grand Ronde Indian reservation."

KALAMA TO BE ABANDONED

THE OREGONIAN received the following from its Kalama correspondent yesterday:

"It is learned from trustworthy sources that the Northern Pacific Railroad Company has ended its negotiations for the river front here, on which it intended to build an incline, and persons who are well informed as to the movements of the company say it is only a question of a few months when the company will remove its crossing to its own property at Coffin Rock, two miles below here. This will be a death blow to the hopes of those who for years have struggled along, barely making a living, constantly hoping, Micawber like, that something would turn up whereby they might get something for the property purchased by them at exorbitant figures years ago from the Lake Superior and Puget Sound Company."

THE IMMIGRATION BOARD.

Proceedings of the Regular Weekly Meeting Held at Their Rooms Last Evening

The regular weekly meeting of the immigration board was called to order at [illegible] o'clock last evening. In the absence of President Dodd, Vice President Charles [illegible] presided.

The reading of minutes of previous meetings was on motion of Mr. Hughes [illegible]

[illegible]

Under the head of unfinished business the question of [illegible] photographic sketches of Oregon [illegible] Samuel J. Nunn of [illegible] in his illustrated lecture throughout the East [illegible] the discussion. Mr. George W. W[illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] submitted [illegible] samples for the work [illegible] proposed to furnish [illegible] colored and [illegible]

On motion of Mr. Hughes the [illegible] was empowered to appoint a committee to [illegible] Mr. [illegible] views and make selections therefrom to be submitted for approval by the board. The chair appointed as such committee Messrs. Hughes, Ostrander and [illegible]. Mr. [illegible] proposed to exhibit these views [illegible] the [illegible] accompanied with a descriptive lecture free of cost to the board except paying for the slides, which will [illegible] probably $80 or $90.

COMMUNICATIONS

Communications were read as follows:

From Thomas [illegible], Tombstone, Ariz., asking rates for distribution of pamphlets; on motion of Mr. Hughes, laid on the table for two weeks.

From the Chicago [illegible] Company, Chicago, same import; same order.

From Colonel R. H. Thomas of [illegible], Pennsylvania, in reference to the [illegible] placed on file.

From J. B. [illegible], Lackawanna [illegible], soliciting agency of the board; declined.

MISCELLANEOUS

The lithographic proof of the bird's-eye view of Portland submitted by the [illegible] Printing Company was on motion approved.

Mr. Hughes was appointed a committee of one to confer with the [illegible] company regarding the map of the Pacific Northwest to be printed by them.

Mr. Stinson of the Northern [illegible] Book addressed the board and proposed to sell space in that publication at a very low figure. After some discussion the offer was declined.

Mr. B. S. [illegible] gave an account of his trip in Eastern Oregon, while collecting exhibits for the board, and urged the appointment of a gentleman from that section to accompany the exhibit East. It was the sense of the board that they would be glad to have the service of such gentleman, but the same must be rendered free of cost to the board.

Mr. Hughes on behalf of the printing committee submitted a table of populations of Washington territory towns to be placed in the new edition of the New Empire, which was approved.

On motion of Mr. Osburn the printing committee were authorized to purchase paper for printing an edition of 100,000 maps for the New Empire. Adjourned.

FAVORED BY FORTUNE

Sacramentans Play Lucky in the Louisiana State Lottery

Dame Fortune, through the medium of the last drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, showered her favors into the laps of Sacramentans with lavish hand. The unprecedented streak of good luck has been the all absorbing topic of conversation, and a Bee reporter this morning started out to interview those who had been designated as the lucky ones. The first one encountered was of course George H. [illegible], the [illegible] cashier. George was not at all backward in stating that he had been enriched to the tune of $[illegible] by the Louisiana State Lottery [illegible] and Mr. Lavenson [illegible] kept them in an envelope and did not look at them until the list of the drawing was published in the papers. Then [illegible] the list and saw that No. [illegible] had drawn the capital prize, $300,000. [illegible] [illegible] Samuel Gerson, the well known fruit commission merchant [illegible] story and smilingly admitted [illegible] $[illegible]

"Yes, I got away with $[illegible] on one-fortieth of the third capital prize," said [illegible] ticket agent at the Southern [illegible] my money a few days since—five $500 bills—through Wells Fargo express."

Another $500 was drawn by [illegible], a man of this city, employed in a shipping [illegible] mission house, who is equally as well known as either of those mentioned above. [illegible] through D. O. Mills bank, but the [illegible] which impel him to most strenuously object to his name being given.—Sacramento (Cal.) Bee, July 10.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

The Sales for the Seven Months Ended July 31, Aggregate $8,380,434 96

The Building Permits Issued Since January 1 Amount to $1,430,232—The Midsummer Lull in Business at Hand

The midsummer lull in business has not affected the real estate market yet, at least it has not caused a falling off in the volume of transactions. It is expected that August will be a quiet month.

The sales during July aggregated nearly $1,250,000, making the total of the dealings for the year to date nearly eight and a half millions. The building permits issued during the month aggregated $[illegible], making the total for the year to date $[illegible]. The fine weather during the month was favorable to building operations and much progress was made upon the buildings under construction.

FOREST GROVE NOTES

FOREST GROVE, July [illegible]

Mr. Warren and family left yesterday for [illegible]

William Kane and family and Mrs. S. Hughes are at Ilwaco.

The Nimrods of this place find no trouble in supplying young grouse for the table.

Several of the gardens in town are already furnishing green corn and ripe tomatoes.

Yesterday as Mr. Horace Stewart was returning his Holstein bull from the water trough to the stable the animal suddenly attacked him, forcing him to the floor and inflicting a few painful though not dangerous bruises. Had the animal not been dehorned, the results without question would have proven far more serious.

W. D. Hoxter and family and Fink Geiger are in camp on the headwaters of the Nehalem, enjoying plenty of fish and game.

The codlin moth is again at work. Every pear and apple orchard shows unmistakable signs of the presence of this destructive pest.

The funeral of Mrs. Harry Gist took place Sunday. She died in Portland on Friday and her remains were brought out for burial on Saturday evening.

The harvest is well under way and is attended with much less enthusiasm than usual. The yield hardly being up to the average, coupled with the matter of prices ruling low, has not had the effect of booming things.

This intensely warm and dry weather has caused a genuine stampede for a cooler clime. [illegible] and Mrs. Edwards and Miss Adams are [illegible]. Dr. and Mrs. Bowlby are at Clatsop. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and family and Mrs. [illegible] Walker and family are at the [illegible]. Mrs. Myrtle [illegible] is on a visiting [illegible] Sound. Mr. Hamar and family are at Netarts.

Old Mr. Harris, while fishing in [illegible] a few days ago, caught a monster [illegible] instead of the trout that he went after. He says that while sitting quietly upon the bank with his hook and line floating upon the current, the crane came flying along just above the water and came in contact with the line and in its efforts to extricate itself got securely hooked in the wing and was hauled ashore.

EAST PORTLAND NEWS.

Contractor John E Woods Missing for Two Weeks

Shannon's Block Sold for $30,000—The Willamette Baseball Club To Be Divided

[illegible] H[illegible] was driving [illegible] street with a horse he had recently bought. At H street the animal became unmanageable and ran away. Strong was thrown out but not much hurt. The horse continued to N street where he whirled toward the tables of the Willamette Railway Company. In making the turn at N and Fourth the horse took to the sidewalk in front of Bruce's grocery and destroyed about $[illegible] worth of goods that were displayed on the sidewalk. The horse ran on the sidewalk a short distance when the buggy upset and he was caught. He was making for his quarters in Morgan's livery stable.

CONTRACTOR WOODS

Contractor John E. Woods, who has been in the building business in Portland and East Portland for several years, left two weeks ago without telling any one where he was going and no word has been received from him since. It was reported yesterday that he was seen in Seattle. A gentleman who had business with Mr. Woods and who was on his bond on a building contract also stated Mr. Woods had requested him to forward certain papers to Victoria. It is too early to draw any conclusions on his actions and his friends have hopes he would return. Mechanic liens have been placed on all his contracts.

A GOOD INDICATION

The sale of Mr. Shannon's block on which stands the North Pacific canning factory, for the sum of $30,000, is evidence of the fact that capitalists have good faith in the future of the East Side river front. Mr. Shannon commenced the canning business many years ago on a small scale and worked hard to convince the public of the superior quality of his goods. In this he succeeded, and built up a large business. Now he disposes of his property to give some one else a chance to rustle.

BASEBALL SCHEME

There is a scheme now on foot to divide the Willamette baseball club and with what players that can be picked up in Portland form two strong nines. The two pitchers in the Willamettes, Tom and Biggs Parrott, should this division be made, would be pitted against each other. This seems to be the only way to awaken an interest in baseball matters as there are no prospects of an outside club coming in.

AN ADDRESS BY JUDGE WILLIAMS

The Hon. George H. Williams of Portland, is announced to address the congregation of Mizpah chapel, near Cole's addition, next Sabbath morning at 11 o'clock. This announcement is sufficient to insure a good audience. Judge Williams's national reputation as an argumentative speaker, coupled with his earnestness in religious matters, makes his address very interesting.

A BOND-SERVANT OF THE STATE

That Is What the Writer of the Subjoined Letter Apparently Wishes To Be

PORTLAND, Or., July 31, 1889.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A movement that is not understood or appreciated is bound to be misrepresented and a movement that is in the line of true progress is certain to be misunderstood. Nationalism or socialism will fare no better than others [illegible] probably worse, as its aim is more far reaching and radical, seeking to establish fraternity [illegible] Seeking to establish law and order in our disorderly and unsystematic industrial world we are told that it will lead to anarchy and confusion. Seeking to supply all with an incentive to industry, we are told that it will take away all incentive.

That our rapid progress as a nation has been owing to the reward of labor the nationalist will not be disposed to dispute. But under our present unsystem or lack of system the reward of labor is daily becoming less and will continue to decrease as the population increases. Nothing can prevent it after the land has been appropriated if a narrow self interest continues to be the mainspring of our industrial life. The [illegible] must have a greater incentive to work than the fear of starvation if our country is to prosper in the future as it has in the past. As it is, those who do the hardest physical labor get the least pay, and our moral and intellectual giants [illegible] in spite of the fact [illegible] are not paid for it. As the English [illegible] work is often done through other motives than those of self interest or the hope of material gain. It is possible that physical labor [illegible] done would be better than it is now. [illegible] that the value of work cannot be [illegible] money or material wealth [illegible] more than the [illegible] an absurdity. [illegible] Millet [illegible] [illegible] $[illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] natural gift [illegible] [illegible] moral [illegible] advantages to which he is entitled by every principle of natural equity. The superior advantages that an intellectual or moral giant is entitled to over those of a common laborer are only such as are necessary to enable him to use his gifts to the best of his ability. These are exactly the advantages that nationalism proposes to give [illegible] We do not return to the man of great natural gifts the opportunity to use them unless they are such as can be turned directly for material gain, and the sons of them. We compel our authors and artists to prostitute their powers to our God the almighty dollar. Nationalism proposes to do away with this by securing to all men an equal and sufficient competence, not because they will do an equal amount of work, but for doing what they can. This is the only rational method of rewarding labor. We all recognize that the man with few natural gifts and the man with many are equally praiseworthy, if they put them to the best use. And they can be induced to put them to the best use not by mere material reward but by emulation for non-sordid honors and distinctions. The fact that a man has been given much by nature increases his responsibility, but is no reason why he should be allowed to demand more from man. Millet would a thousand times rather paint than dig at the same pay. There is no good reason why he should receive more for painting than the laborer for digging or why either should receive more or less than the man who manages a railroad provided each is doing to the best of his ability the work that he is fitted to do. We are all members one of another and what is bad for one is bad for all. As Edward Bellamy says: "There is absolutely no answer to the proposition that the bodily needs of all are the same and therefore under any humane and rational arrangement of society the provision for them must be the same."

If all were working in orderly co-operation [illegible] labor would supply the physical needs of mankind. Labor would not be dreaded as it is now, and as now there is no lack of men who will give up their lives for their country on due occasion there would then be found men who would even be willing to plow a field or dig a ditch [illegible]

The Book [illegible] and similar experiments are constantly brought up as arguments against socialism, but they are nothing of the kind and cannot be compared to the nationalism of "Looking Backward." It is impossible for an individual or a small society to stand alone in this world and conduct their business on different principles [illegible] of the community at large. The individual who attempts to do so generally goes to the wall [illegible] society is foredoomed to failure. No man and no small society can live or die to himself or itself. We are served by the whole community and as we live, and if as a community we [illegible] would look upon these questions in the light of reason rather than in the [illegible] of self interest we would see that by doing our [illegible] would find them [illegible] establishing our [illegible] the laws of righteousness [illegible] is that constitute national prosperity [illegible]

[illegible] on socialism of Victor Hugo [illegible] THE OREGONIAN says is actually [illegible] and is very [illegible] as Lowell says [illegible] While socialism [illegible] have such [illegible] Hugo, Lowell, Ruskin, Herbert Spencer, John Stuart Mill, Edward Everett Hale, Rev. Heber Newton, [illegible] W. Higginson, Mary A. Livermore, Helen Campbell, Frances E. Willard and many other such workers and thinkers [illegible] THE OREGONIAN [illegible] is purely a figment of the imagination.

I. A. WALLACE

[It is only the irrational socialist who never stops to examine or reason on the statements which he puts forth as real world truths. If he should do so he would quickly see, as the world has long since seen, their utter and hopeless fallacy. What greater incentives to labor can there be than the fear of starvation and the hope of future prosperity? Remove the former and you do away with the latter, for what man will work hard all his life when he knows he can accomplish no more than the man who will do only what the state may require? Such an existence would be a state of unparalleled inertia and mediocrity. "Those who do the hardest physical labor get the least pay" is true enough, but it is only because brawn is less valuable than brain, as iron is less valuable than gold. There are 100,000,000 of men who can dig potatoes where there is one who can paint an "Angelus" of Millet. It is the rarity and the scarcity that make the price.]

A Minion of Despotism Leads the Mighty Sullivan as Easily as the Gentle Mary Led Her Little Lamb

NEW YORK, July 31.—John L. Sullivan was to-night arrested for participating in the fight with Kilrain, and is now locked up at police headquarters.

[illegible] this morning Inspector Byrnes was visited by State Agent Childs of Mississippi, who handed him a requisition signed by Governor Lowry and asked for the arrest of Sullivan. The inspector looked for Sullivan all day but the latter did not return to his hotel till evening. About 10 o'clock to-night Detective Sergeant Armstrong called at the hotel and was immediately shown up stairs. Sullivan himself opened the door. Accepting his friendly invitation the detective took a chair and talked sociably with Muldoon and Charles Johnson while Sullivan prepared himself for a night in a cell. Then the party went to the street and drove away [illegible]. Half an hour later he was [illegible] at police headquarters. He wore a dark sack coat, dark trousers and a [illegible] and smoked a cigar and was not at all disconcerted by his arrest. He [illegible] quickly [illegible] while the inspector told the reporters about his arrest, and said he had nothing to say. Later he was [illegible] to a cell, where he was visited by Muldoon and Johnson, who [illegible] followed him down town. [illegible] Sullivan will be [illegible] general sessions for a hearing to-morrow.

A LIGHT WEIGHT FIGHT

Billy Meehan Whips George Mulholland at Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, July 31.—A fight to a finish between light weights George Mulholland, the Australian, and Billy Meehan for a purse of $150 took place this evening at the rooms of the Southern California [illegible] J. H. [illegible] acted as referee.

Up to the eighth round there were some hot exchanges, both men smashing each other's faces whenever an opening was presented. Meehan's eyes were nearly closing and Mulholland was somewhat distressed from body blows.

After the eighteenth the rounds consisted mostly of waiting rounds, diversified occasionally by a sharp rally.

The referee declared at the end of the twenty-eighth round that he would postpone the fight if they didn't get down to work.

In the thirty-fourth and succeeding rounds there was some hot fighting and Mulholland appeared groggy. In the thirty-eighth both men fell twice and the last time Mulholland failed to rise, and his seconds threw up the sponge.

PORTLAND, THURSDAY, AUG. 1.

"GOD IN THE CONSTITUTION."

The spectacle presented by the angry debate in the Olympia convention on Monday, relative, as the disputants somewhat irreverently stated the question, to "putting God in the constitution," was one which that body might well, for the sake of its own dignity, if from no higher motive, have spared the public.

The preamble, as presented to the convention for final consideration, made simple statement of the object of the instrument in the following words: "We, the people of the state of Washington, to preserve our rights, do ordain this constitution." This was simple and to the point—quite comprehensive enough for political purposes, yet lacking, as several members of the convention thought, in the show of reverence for divine power that becomes an intelligent and devout people. Accordingly a substitute was proposed which showed the familiarity of its author with the preamble to the constitution of the United States, combined with a reverence for the Supreme Ruler of the Universe, a reliance upon his power and gratitude for his guidance that does not, it must be confessed, comport with the character of the modern politician, or tally with the belief of at least a large number of his constituents. Hence the controversy, which for a time caused the convention to take on the character of a village debating club attempting to settle the mighty question of the proper limits of the power of the Almighty.

The ordinary citizen, whom no one would suspect of reliance upon any power greater than a political convention or the votes of the sovereign people, suddenly developed a strain of reverence in his composition that would have delighted the heart of his good old Puritan grandmother, while the individual of the type that unwittingly seeks to relieve the Almighty of a grave charge by proclaiming himself a "self-made man," found in the occasion an opportunity which he eagerly improved to voice his so-called "liberal" views upon the question, which of course sought to rule out peremptorily the opinions of others as insincere and nonsensical.

It is a matter to be regretted that men composing a dignified and responsible body did not approach this question in a spirit of concession to and respect for the feelings and opinions of others, that insures generous tolerance and dispassionate speech. The impulse that prompts a human being, when facing a great responsibility, to recognize the limit of human power, and name the name of God reverently, is one that is not dependent upon creed, and is alike independent of tradition and of the myths that wait upon formulated belief. Its instinctive expression binds no man's conscience, pledges no man to the support of the church, asks no man's endorsement of special views upon religion. The appeal to a higher power for guidance and protection is its simplest form of expression. As a symbol of this feeling "God in the constitution" trenches upon no man's liberty of conscience. The sentiment neither adds to nor takes from the political significance of the instrument that follows the preamble in which it is embodied.

The first form proposed for this preamble was simple and sufficiently specific, and might with propriety have been adopted. Its proposed substitute, expressing a sentiment that does honor to the people of a commonwealth, while not in any manner detracting from the political significance of the instrument, might also with perfect propriety have become the preamble to the constitution of the state of Washington, and it would have been a credit to the convention if the matter had been decided without a debate, which, with all of its rancor, proved nothing except that there are still those who "strain at a gnat and swallow a camel."

THE TIN PLATE QUESTION.

Our people are the largest consumers of tin plate in the world. Great part of the tin plate product of Great Britain is exported to the United States, and the trade is very profitable to the industrial and shipping interests of Great Britain. Unquestionably if it shall prove true that the deposits of tin reported in the Black Hills of Dakota are readily available, our country will soon manufacture its own tin plates. A letter from Manchester, England, published in the American Economist, reports that "the discovery of tin in Dakota and the manifestation of a desire among Americans to establish a tin plate industry in the United States, has quite naturally created a feeling of alarm in South Wales." The letter contains these additional statements, viz: "Tin ore can be prepared, calcined, washed, smelted and refined, in America by the aid of skilled labor, which money can always command, just as well as it can here; and it is quite certain that tin plates can also be made and sold at a profit. Manufacturers in Wales would not feel so alarmed if they thought there was no possibility of tin plates being produced in the states. At the present time the position of the trade here may be summed up as follows: The increased value of coal, coke and pig-iron has brought about a further advance in the price of finished iron necessary for the manufacture of tin-plates. An advance, therefore, in the latter is rendered necessary, but sellers hesitate to take this step for fear of giving color to the rumor current some time ago that a syndicate is being formed to control the trade. If the Americans thought that such a combination existed, they would, it is thought, make strenuous efforts to supply their own requirements, and thus enable them to dispense with the important article. Hence, says the Welshmen, we must be careful about raising prices. The only cloud that makers wish to see dispersed is that of the American tariff, about which they are troubled exceedingly. It is credibly asserted that representatives of American capitalists are already over here seeking information; for the special and exclusive information of these gentlemen, should they really be among us, the statement is being disseminated that it will be found that as the various materials required lie so far apart it will be impossible to manufacture tin-plates in America at competitive prices, even with the maintenance of any reasonable import duty. All this kind of talk must of course, be taken with a very large grain of salt. The Welsh manufacturers may succeed in deceiving themselves on the subject, but it is quite evident that outsiders will not be misled."

Two great conferences of international importance are to be held at Washington this fall. The congress of American nations will meet October 2. Henry Clay was and the Hon. James G. Blaine is an advocate of the policy of co-operation between this country and South and Central America. Chili, Brazil, the Argentine Republic, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Peru, Honduras, Nicaragua, Salvador and Bolivia have formally accepted, and will send representatives. Another conference will be held at Washington to harmonize the marine codes of civilized nations according to the canons of modern commerce and international amity.

In view of the fact that speculations are being made regarding the reapportionment of congressmen, when the census shall have been completed, it is interesting to note the number of legislative bodies in other countries. There are 672 members of parliament in England, that is to say, one to every 52,-800 people; 584 members of the French chamber, one to every 70,000; 397 members of the German reichstag, one to every 117,-000; 508 members of the chamber in Italy, one to every 57,000; 431 members of the congress of Spain, one to every 50,000. The suggestion is that upon the basis of an estimated population of 67,000,000 we allow one representative for every 200,000 inhabitants. This would give us 337 members of the house and would tend to increase the importance of smaller states. If Oregon has, as is estimated upon the basis of the school population, 400,000 inhabitants, this state would give us two representatives.

The death of Professor John Kendrick, who held an active professorship in Marietta college from 1839 to 1873, is recorded as having occurred on the 30th ult., he having attained the age of 85 years. He was a scholar of the busy, energetic type, and his long life of mental activity is another proof that men who live in the domain of intelligent thought and constant intellectual endeavor do not find in the fine friction of active mentality a force that is detrimental to health and longevity. Professor Kendrick is but one of a number of men who have recently died at an advanced age, who had been active students and energetic teachers for more than half a century, while the long life of Maria Mitchell, who recently passed away, in the middle of her eighth decade of life illustrates the fact that intense mental activity is not incompatible with length of years in woman.

Quite a sensation has been caused by the unearthing of a formidable pile of human bones in an ancient pit, near Yankton, on the Missouri river. The deposit, which indicates that about 400 bodies were buried there, suggests to the horrified imagination of the people thereabouts the possibility of a wholesale massacre of immigrants some 40 years ago. As the entire country surrounding Yankton was at that period in possession of the Indians, it is more probable that the pit of bones merely indicates the burial place of some of the then powerful tribes of the great plains. It is most unlikely that so large a body of immigrants would have dropped out of sight so completly that all record of them would have been lost, while Indian burial pits are so common throughout the Northwest as to excite no wonder and but slight comment.

The selection of a national flower is engrossing the attention of many patriotic women, who are not willing for this country to be outstripped by Scotch thistles, English primroses, French lilies or German cornflowers. The dandelion, apple blossom and nasturtium has each found friends to plead its cause eloquently and gracefully, but the majority favor the arbutus, as it was the first noted by Kitty Carver after she landed from the Mayflower. It is suggested that if the choice were left to the men the sturdy sunflower would have friends. This may be, for while this flower is not as convenient to wear in the buttonhole as some others, it gets up in the world pretty well for a flower, is not a clinging plant, furnishes nutritious food for poultry and makes reasonably good fuel.

A careful compilation from all known statists places the number of the human family living to-day at about 1,450,000,000. In Asia there are 800,000,000, or an average of 120 to the square mile; in Europe, 320,-000,000, averaging 100 to the square mile, and in Africa 210,000,000. In the New World, both North and South America there are but 110,000,000, relatively thinly scattered. In the islands, large and small, 10,000,000. The extremes of the white and black are as five to three, and the remaining 700,000,000 are intermediate, brown and tawny.

John Durbin, one of the men who assisted at the lynching of the notorious Kate Maxwell for "cattle rustling" in Wyoming a few days ago, is a man of varied accomplishments. He is a wealthy citizen of Cheyenne, has been a member of the state legislature, and is a Methodist deacon. Only a week before the lynching he gave $1000 to the building fund of the church. It may reasonably be concluded that he believes in work as well as in prayer, and that he has but little use for such hackneyed phrase as that which proclaims that vengeance belongs to the Lord.

The statistics of the Salvation Army furnished by "General" Booth at the last grand concourse showed an increase of 283 corps and 1065 officers. The march past the general was performed by over 20,000 soldiers and was marked with intense fervor. Guaging the noise made by this host with their tambourines, drums and vocal hallelujahs by the din which a handful of the red-shirted and poke-bonneted brigade make upon our streets when out on a parade one might easily imagine the deafening effect of the "fervor" reported.

Minnesota's average yield to the acre in wheat this year is low, being but fifteen bushels, but her aggregate is enormous, being about 47,000,000. The yield of the Dakotas will be about eight bushels per acre and her grand total will swell the wheat bulk of the country by about 35,000,-000 bushels. The aggregate in these two sections of the Northwest will be something like 10,000,000 bushels in excess of last year.

An Eastern paper says that for one penny you can ride from one end of London to the other. No such thing. This would be a distance of twenty-five miles, and the average ride for a penny is one mile. To ride this distance by a bus would consume a whole day, twenty-five different busses would have to be used and the cost would be about 2 shillings or 50 cents.

The last report from Virginia is to the effect that William Mahone has his eye upon the presidency. The presidency is not likely to suffer, but the strain upon the Virginia senator's optic nerve promises to be severe unless his friends can induce him to relieve it by sighting some nearer and less glittering object.

A great wail issues forth from the dismayed democracy, and the pension bureau must be investigated. While engaged in this pursuit let the committee do a little post mortem work and let the expectant public into the methods by which Commissioner Black depopulated the pension department of republicans. It might give us a point or two.

Governor Beaver, of Pennsylvania, estimates the amount of money contributed for the sufferers at Johnstown at not less than three millions of dollars, and when all the sums still in the hands of local committees are in, the total may considerably exceed this amount.

At St. Paul to-day the senatorial committee on irrigation holds its first session, and will hear a delegation from South Dakota. Montana and Idaho will be in turn visited, and the indications are that some practical results will follow at the next session of congress.

The minister of justice of the province at Ottawa yesterday signed the warrant for the extradition of Burke, who is alleged to be implicated in the murder of Dr. Cronin. From reports, it is not unlikely that Burke will confess, and reveal the inner history of the crime.

An English syndicate has bought five of the six breweries of Paterson, N. J., for an aggregate of $2,800,000. A similar proposition to the Pittsburg brewers was rejected. These men propose to make what there is to be made in the business themselves and rise superior to the temptation of British gold. Putting the question on a patriotic basis, though there is good reason to suppose that financial considerations governed them, the brewers informed the representatives of the English syndicate that "Pittsburg was not on the market begging for capital to run her industries," or words to that effect. Their price was probably not named, as brewers, like everybody else, are not likely to permit local pride to spoil a sale when the terms suit.

Five women have been appointed sanitary police of Chicago, to report upon the factories in which girls are employed. If they are efficient, intelligent, conscientious women they will doubtless soon convince the health authorities of that city, and humanitarians generally that they were appointed none to soon.

The first settlements in Arizona and California were founded by Eusebio Francisco Kino, a Jesuit, who was an explorer in those regions as early as 1650. He founded the first settlement in Arizona on the Gila river in 1670, and in 1697 founded the first settlement in California.

STOCKHOLDERS MEETING—A SPECIAL meeting of the Stockholders of the Real Estate Title & Trust Company, will be held at the company's office, room 7, Third Floor, Abington Block, Portland, Oregon, on Thursday, the 8th day of August, 1889, at 4 o'clock P. M.; the object of said meeting is to consider and determine the question of increasing the capital stock of said company to the sum of $50,000, divided into 2500 shares of the par value of $20 each, and to provide for the disposition of said stock. J. THORBURN ROSS, Sec.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT IN PURsuance of an order of the Circuit Court of the state of Oregon, for Multnomah county, made on the 20th day of July, 1889, in the dissolution suit of J. D. Freeborn vs. Harry F. McKay, the undersigned receiver of the partnership property of the firm of Freeborn & Co., will sell at public auction to the highest bidder on Saturday, the 3d day of August, 1889, at 10 o'clock A. M., at the store of said firm, No. [illegible] Third st., Portland, Or., the entire stock of merchandise of said firm and the fixtures, tools and implements of the same. J. M. BIRMINGHAM, Receiver.
Dated July 23, 1889.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS—SEALED PROposals will be received by the undersigned commissioners for the grading and construction of the Long Creek wagon road, commencing at the 30th mile post on said road in Umatilla county, Oregon, and following the present location to the 75th mile post in Grant county, Oregon.

Proposals will be received until Saturday, August 10, 1889, at 10 o'clock A. M., at which time they will be opened.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a check or bond or other good and sufficient guarantee in the sum of $1000 (one thousand dollars) that the bidder will within eight days after being notified of the acceptance of his proposal enter into contract with the commissioners of the Long Creek wagon road with the necessary bond and sureties for the faithful performance and completion of the work embraced in the proposal.

The work is laid out in 6 divisions, and will be let in whole or any division or subdivision not less than two miles.

Camas Creek division embraces that part of the road to be constructed between the 30th and 49th mile posts.

Bridge Creek division, that portion between the 49th and 54th mile posts.

North Fork division, that portion between the 54th and 58th mile posts.

Meadow Creek division, that portion between the 58th and 66th mile posts.

Granite Creek division, that portion between the 66th and 71st mile posts.

Middle Fork division, that portion between the 71st and 75th mile posts.

All bids must bear the name of the division desired and must state rate per mile for grading and constructing said road as per plans and specifications on file at the county clerk's office, in Umatilla county, Oregon.

Further particulars can be obtained by calling on or writing to L. W. Loehr, superintendent, room 15, Villard House, Pendleton, Oregon.

The right to reject any or all bids is reserved by the commissioners, Signed: J. H. KEENEY,
H. H. DAVIS,

NEW SIDEWALKS AT LAST.

Between 600 and 800 Feet Being Laid Every Day in This City.

A Man's Leg Amputated by Steam Power and a Tightening Rope—Through Trains to Chicago on the Northern Pacific

NEW SIDEWALKS GOING DOWN —On making inquiry at the office of the city surveyor yesterday it was learned that on an average from 600 to 800 feet of sidewalk is being laid per day Yesterday over 800 feet was put down Many of the side-walks being replaced are in far better condition than hundreds of others that have been condemned by the superintendent of streets The attention in THE OREGONIAN has had a good effect and many are putting down new walks through a sense of pride in the appearance of the city as a whole Real estate holders and mossback obstructionists who refuse to replace condemned sidewalks in front of their property will be compelled to do so as soon as the new ordinance relating to the matter of sidewalks goes into effect Under the new law it will be impossible for any one to shirk the responsibility of building a new walk, for if the property owner does not do it the city will, at his expense.

VISITORS FROM KANSAS CITY —A party of representative citizens of Kansas City arrived here last evening and are registered at the Esmond They left home on the 24th in a special car and took the boat at The Dalles yesterday morning in order to get a better view of the scenery of the Columbia. They will remain here a few days and will look for an opportunity to invest in corner lots. They then proceed to San Francisco and go home via the Southern Pacific. The party consists of Dr J. K. Snell and wife, Miss Alma Snell, J. T. Holmes, wife, son and three daughters, Miss Burdette, Miss Christine Melton, Miss Bessie Holmes and family J F Bales and family, Miss Kate Bailey, Mr Vernon Green, Charles Adkins and Arthur Crooke

SUMMER TIME IS PASSING BY —Already there are signs of approaching autumn The poplars are showering down dry and withered leaves the rustling of which under foot gives notice that summer is about over In the quiet evening is heard the mournful and monotonous song of the cricket and grasshopper, who begin to realize that their gay and happy existence is rapidly drawing to a close. The farmer after a hard day's work in the grain field, as he sits on his porch at twilight in the cool of the evening looks at the long rows of shocks in his fields and hums the "Harvest time is passing by, the summer days are gone." Already rain is longed for and will be as welcome as the flowers in spring

CARP IN GOOD DEMAND —Large carp continue to come in from the bayous along the Columbia in great numbers, and find a ready sale These fish, when caught in the clear cold waters of the Columbia, are quite different from those raised in muddy ponds. A number of them were served at the Arlington Club, broiled with butter sauce and were pronounced equal to shad by those who partook of them There are two kinds of the carp caught, one having large scales all over the body the other having only a few scales It is not known that there is any difference in the quality of the two species They are about the most plentiful fish in the market now

THE LAST HOURS OF THE ALASKAN —The painting now on exhibition at the O R & N Co store on Third street, is attracting much attention It was executed by Pickett and Powell who it will be remembered painted "The last voyage of the Alaskan." The scene represents the steamer at night a few hours before the foundering She is before the wind, rising on a huge wave showing dark and sharp against the moon which shines from a wild and stormy sky The four life boats which were stowed for several hours before the wreck are represented. The scene is realistic and fully impresses one with all the horror of a wreck on the midnight sea

QUICKSILVER FURNACE IN OPERATION — Mr James Chenoweth who has a quicksilver mine about ten miles east of Oakland Douglas county has lately completed a first class Halsey & Green furnace thereon with a capacity of forty tons per day The furnace has been in operation about fifteen days and a clean up will be made in a few days. The mine has a very promising appearance, there being a large body of rich ore in sight. Mr Chenoweth brought down 1000 sheep and reports the cattle business dull and the country beginning to look very dry and unless rain falls before long, cattle will see a rough time.

MILL FOR THE ARLINGTON MINE —The directors of the Arlington Mining Company have completed arrangements for having a mill put up at their mine It will combine the Russell process for pulverizing the ore a Sturdevell furnace for roasting it and Russell's leaching process for extracting the silver The expense of getting everything in working order will be about $75,000 and all provisions for having this money in hand for the work have been made. The work of construction will be carried out with all possible speed as all are anxious to see the bricks coming out

OPERATING EXPENSES WILL BE PAID —On petition of C. N Scott receiver of the Oregonian Railway Company, Judge Deady yesterday made an order allowing him to borrow $1200 at 9 per cent. to make good the deficiency in the operating expenses of the lines for the month of June and to issue certificate for that amount to be a first lien on the road in common with all other certificates. It is understood that as long as the lines are in the hands of a receiver the operating expenses will be kept paid up and no more indebtedness will be allowed to accrue

THROUGH TRAINS TO CHICAGO —Commencing to-morrow the Northern Pacific railway will run through trains from Portland and Tacoma to Chicago, thereby obviating the change of cars and attending delay at St Paul Arrangements have been made with the Wisconsin Central railway to take cars from St Paul the Eastern terminus of the Northern Pacific system to Chicago The time between Portland and Chicago will be about four days and a half. There will very likely be some change in the time table but as yet the new schedule has not been made up

A THIEF MAKES A SMALL HAUL —A thief gathered up a few dollars by making the rounds of several stores in the western part of town early yesterday morning He began operations by climbing over the transom of Lyerly's drug store on Eighth and Jefferson streets and tapping the till. He pocketed $1 50 and tackled King's grocery store, which is near by but a bell attached to the door scared him off He then crossed the street and entered Bullivant's grocery store through a transom and stole $5

PRESIDENT ADAMS DUE TO-DAY —Mr Charles Francis Adams president of the Union Pacific Railway Company and family who have just returned from a trip to Alaska will arrive here this morning and will leave for Tacoma at 8 o'clock on the Potter On their return they will proceed to California, en route for home Mr Oliver W Mink, comptroller of the Union Pacific who is traveling with the party will leave for the East on his return from the beach

GOOD FOR WEARY PEOPLE Those who cannot escape to the seaside on the regular boats have the opportunity to take the steamer Undine from foot of Taylor street at 10 o'clock Saturday night for Astoria. Close connections are made for Ilwaco and other points. Returning, the boat leaves Astoria Sunday night at 7 o'clock in place of steamer General Canby The Undine is clean and cool, the rooms are newly furnished and are strictly first class

ON THE DOWN GRADE—Yesterday forenoon one of the horses and carts employed in grading the terrace road on the face of Hoffman's hill went over the dump and rolled down to the bottom of the hill, the cart going through the fence at the bottom leaving the horse behind The disgusted animal rose to his feet and not being endowed with speech was unable to express his feelings so went quietly to work feeding on the withered grass.

GUTHRIE IMPROVING —Quint Guthrie the fireman, who, in addition to having his feet badly crushed, was fearfully scalded in the accident at Lebanon junction switch Sunday night is getting along nicely and it is now thought that he will recover, but his face will always bear the marks of his fearful experience He is being well cared for at St. Vincent's hospital by his mother and sister, who are in constant attendance

SHE FOUND HER HUSBAND —Mrs Andrew Brown, the lady from Benton Mont. who advertised for her husband several days since has been relieved of all anxiety for her husband on reading THE OREGONIAN the morning the notice appeared, at once went to her hotel and found her. Mr. Brown had been boarding at a private house which accounts for the fact that his wife's letter did not reach him.

INDICTMENT DISMISSED —In the U S circuit court yesterday an indictment against Martin McConaughy for perjury was dismissed on motion of District Attorney McArthur The perjury was alleged to have been committed in swearing to statements in regard to taking up land and as McConaughy had been tried on a similar charge and acquitted it was not thought worth while to try this case.

CALIFORNIA MEN LOCATING OREGON LAND —California lumbermen have located two townships of timber land, principally yellow and sugar pine, in Jackson and Klamath counties within the past few months It is their intention to build mills and convert the timber into lumber as soon as they can make the necessary preparations.

AN ATTORNEY SUES FOR HIS FEES—Richard Williams, an attorney has begun suit against J [illegible] and wife in the state circuit court to [illegible] services rendered.

UNION COUNTY IS ALL RIGHT—"Union county will yield an average wheat crop," said State Senator J W Norval of that county to a reporter yesterday The acreage is much larger than it was a year ago and but for the hot weather of the past ten days the crop would have been the largest ever harvested. Union county suffers less than Wasco, Gilliam and Wallowa counties which will produce a crop varying from one fourth to one third of the average.

A COLORED BARBER IN TROUBLE —A warrant is out for the arrest of C E T Cooper, a colored barber who keeps a shop on B street between First and Second charging him with assaulting and threatening to kill Theodore Campbell, another chin polisher It is alleged that Cooper on being asked by Campbell to settle a little bill, assaulted him with a piece of gaspipe and then threatened to kill him

THREE SMALL CIVIL SUITS—Suits were commenced in Justice Tuttle's court yesterday against Walter Keys by John Donnerberg, for $206 13 and $16 55 costs and by G Cohn & Bro for $86 34 and $18 55 costs. Suit was also commenced in this court by P. Kohlberg & Co against William Haferkorn to recover $224 50 due on merchandise sold and delivered between February 7 and May 6 1889

RECOVERED HIS PROPERTY —Tuesday night the janitor of the Union block recovered a lot of silverware, clocks, dental tools, etc., which were stolen from the office of Dr C T Prehn last Sunday by the same person who burglarized the office of Dr John Welch The stolen property was found in a small closet located near Dr Prehn's office, where it had been secreted

OREGON HORSES OFF FOR MONTANA —Mayor De Lashmutt has placed his horse Blondie with C H Lewis of Jackson, Mich who will take the horse to Montana for the season Blondie will join A C Bray's stable which includes Sister V owned by Penman & Waddell and Little Joe Raven Boy and Lady Maud owned by Mr. Bray The stable will start for Montana to-morrow

OFFICER NO 17 MINUS A STAR.—As Police Officer No. 17 was wrestling with a drunken man in the vicinity of Eleventh and J streets late Tuesday evening his star was torn off from his coat and lost in the street Some one was seen to pick it up and if the finder whoever he was will return the star to the city jail he will confer a favor on the police department.

AMUSEMENTS

CORDRAY'S MUSEE THEATER —Another large and enthusiastic audience witnessed the third production of Colleen Bawn last evening and from the frequent manifestations of applause were most agreeably entertained

Miss Essie Tittel nightly grows in the esteem of the public because of her faithful conscientious intelligent work The role of Eily is not one calling for strained effort but it requires delicate handling to bring out the true meaning of the author in creating the part Miss Tittel gives it these delicate touches and for one unused to character parts she accomplishes the brogue remarkably well Her scene with Hardress in the second act is so admirably done in its earnestness and thorough trust in her unworthy husband as to evoke unstinted applause All the people in the cast have improved greatly since the first night and the play runs smoothly throughout

The Musee still holds its share of public attention with the special performances of the Comedians Campbell and Nibbs, Burns and Donnelly and the Magic in Casanova as well as the cage of monkeys the electric clock and other attractions

Colleen Bawn again to night

NEW PARK THEATER —It is seldom so highly pleased a crowd of people leave a place of entertainment as the large audience which attended the New Park theater last night to witness the third performance of Katti the play ran smoothly and Marrietta Nash was at her best This little lady is such a clever artist that even had she appeared here without her great New York reputation she would have been recognized as one of the best soubrettes ever seen in Portland

The audience last night was the largest of the week and Miss Nash has established herself as a great favorite with the ladies by her unassuming and modest manners, and she may expect a splendid matinee Saturday This is positively the last week of this company and the end of summer prices at the New Park theater

KESSLER WANTS TO FIGHT.

He Is Going to 'Frisco to Knock a Chip Off Some One's Shoulder.

He Formerly Lived Here and Worked as a Carpenter—He Has Fought a Number of Battles and Has Never Been Whipped.

A former Portland boy, who has gained considerable celebrity as a pugilist since leaving here, is George Kessler who is now staying at the Quimby house on his way to San Francisco to arrange a match with any one of his own weight who is willing to enter the ring with him Kessler is the champion middle weight and heavy weight of Montana, and has had many fierce fights He has never been whipped

While in Portland Kessler was employed on the Morrison street bridge as a carpenter He left the city shortly before the bridge was completed for Tacoma where he had two fights with Al Jackson He won both, the first in three rounds and the other in seventeen rounds

He next met Al Fields of Seattle, whom he worsted in one minute and a half

Leaving Tacoma Kessler went to Anaconda, Mont. where he fought Rod McKenzie the champion middle weight of the territory The fight lasted ten rounds, and was declared a draw Shortly after he fought McKenzie again at Butte and this time whipped him in twenty rounds.

Nearly all of Kessler's subsequent battles were fought in Butte Ed McCune the champion heavy weight of Winnipeg undertook to whip him in four rounds for $100 a side and all the gate receipts Kessler could not be downed and got the money

Kessler's next battle was one of the fiercest ever fought in Montana He fought twenty three rounds, rough and tumble with Jerry Slattery at the end of which time both men were so exhausted that the referee declared the fight a draw

Tally Owen was next whipped in seven rounds at Phillipsburg

Jack Ryan the champion middle weight of St Paul soon after tried to stop Kessler in four rounds in Butte, but found his man too much for him

Young Dempsey of California was whipped by Kessler in six rounds and Billy Harrold of Colorado got all he wanted in three rounds

The last fight Kessler had was with Dave Davis, a heavy weight from Pennsylvania. Davis is over 6 feet high and weighed 198 pounds He undertook to whip Kessler in ten rounds for a purse and all the gate receipts It was a hard fought contest and Kessler came out victorious without receiving a scratch

Kessler is 5 feet 7 inches high and weighs 158 pounds when in condition He is 24 years of age. He has been staying in Portland with a view of arranging a match with Tom Cleary If Cleary will not fight, he will go to San Francisco to engage in a contest with any man of his own weight who will take him up From what local sporting men have seen of his sparring they place a great deal of confidence in him and many will back him.

PORTLAND, THURSDAY, AUG 1.

THE REPUBLICAN PROGRAMME,

Senator Morrill, one of the oldest and ablest representatives of the republican party, in the July Forum, published an article wherein he defined and defended the past and present policy of his party John G Carlisle, of Kentucky, replies in the August issue of that magazine In the manner that usually characterizes democratic argument, he has constructed his own "man of straw," by distorting plain statements of Mr. Morrill, and has then proceeded with Southern valor to demolish and destroy the creations of his imagination, no doubt to the satisfaction of himself and democratic followers

At the outset Mr Carlisle says that Senator Morrill admits that the "negro problem" is one of "the perils in front of the present administration" but he charges against the republican party that no definite solution is suggested He scarcely has finished this sentence when he proceeds to attack the suggestion of a Federal election and registration law This he claims is only to be done in order to perpetuate the republican party in power by the creation of several hundred thousand offices to be appointed by the president, as a reward for political services and that it will convert the negro into an active politician

Mr Carlisle seems to forget that this registration law is not to be enacted so that it will operate in one section Its provisions will apply to the whole people to every section and it declares as much against fraud in Maine and New York as corruption and evasions of the law in Kentucky and South Carolina He pays a poor compliment to our national sense of fairness and integrity when he asserts that the law is intended as a mere political trick to strengthen one party or that it is a scheme whereby the negro vote of the South shall be counted exclusively for the republican party From his language we get the idea that he regards any count of the negro vote as a novelty, and so it is and has been for many years If his only objection to a registration law lies in the fact that it will serve to convert the negro into an active politician, then in his objection a great mass of Americans rejoice for when the negro feels that he may with safety do his duty politically he will possess the greatest incentive that ever moved a human being to intelligent action

And while we are discussing this subject we might ask Mr Carlisle why is it that the Southern states should be granted representation in congress based upon a vast population of citizens equal before the law, who are deprived of the use of the ballot? The party of Mr Carlisle stands at the polls with shotgun loaded and pointed It says to the colored man "Oh yes, come up and vote but be sure you vote my ticket. If, however, you persist in casting a ballot for the other wicked party, we can't be held responsible if the gun should explode and kill you" Mr Carlisle admits this between the lines and would deprecate the operation of any law that seeks to put an end to this lawless state of society

He attacks the civil service attitude of the present party in power, and compares with it the work of Cleveland's administration Cleveland went before the country upon this issue and if he had held sacred, the pledges made before election there would be little work in turning out rascals, for Mr Harrison to do But while Cleveland went slow in the early part of his term to allay public suspicion, he made up for his laxity in the last two years of his administration and the republican party has had its hands full so far, in removing incompetent democrats in order that the public service should be prompt respectable and efficient Civil service is no mushroom growth its introduction into the public service must be slow and the claim that Harrison's administration is carrying out the pledges of the party is fully sustained by the fearless manner in which the civil service commission is doing its duty and the general approval of the country thereat.

Mr Carlisle fears that we will deplete the public treasury by extending pension privileges, by aiding in public education, and by granting subsidies of various nature and this furnishes him with other points of attack Does the democratic party through Mr Carlisle propose to set itself up against the extension of our educational facilities, and against the creation of a navy and merchant marine? If so there need be little fear that such a party will ever again hold the ascendancy in national politics By clinging to such antiquated notions, it dooms itself to a hopeless minority, a memory a tradition

Mr Carlisle concludes by warning the republican party that it will be called to a strict account for its alleged subserviency to special interests and classes, for its disregard of its most solemn pledges and for the continued failure to give any substantial relief to an overtaxed people The republican party went before the country pledging itself in favor of the protection of home industries it asserted that lawful citizenship is and must be the panoply and safeguard of him who wears it and should protect him whether high or low rich or poor in all of his civil rights at home and abroad it proposed to use all legal means to stamp out polygamy where ever found it favored the reduction of the price of postage, it promised to care for the men who fought to save the nation it declared in favor of an ocean mail service by American ships, it promised to promote the establishment of an efficient navy, it declared that it would favor state and national education it promised to use every exertion to exclude pauper and criminal immigrants These and other wise and fearless declarations were made by the republican party prior to the election of Mr Harrison and yet before that party has been in power quite five months it is charged with failure and weighted down with the triumphant shout of Mr Carlisle that the sword of Damocles hangs over its head We know it and he knows it, for that same sword public opinion swept his party from power and paved the way for republican success in 1888 The republican party will do its duty fully to the country and will cheerfully abide the popular verdict when its term of stewardship shall expire

RANGE PICTURES

The stories of the range country possess a tinge of romance that is attractive to readers at a distance and interesting to those who live in the more cultivated portions of the Pacific northwest The diversity of interests that exist in our state would furnish material for a book that would be very attractive reading to the world and would surprise many of the old residents of our state with information new to them Even the range country varies in its characteristics greatly that different portions of the [illegible] north west vary as much as is possible because some [illegible] to the mountain [illegible] while other ranches are out on the alkali plains

The Klamath country has its especial characteristics, and is merely a stock country General John [illegible] Miller of Salem, possesses stock [illegible] in the Klamath that have become valuable, and his good management has developed all the value possible in that business He has expended money liberally to develop his range and stock it well and his success is an illustration of what THE OREGONIAN has urged upon the stock men of this region He was fortunate in securing 2000 acres of land near the agency and Klamath military reservation at the head of Klamath lake, which furnishes his summer range, and 10,000 acres below Linkville, on the Klamath river, that forms his winter range All this land is under the shadow of the great Sierras and frost will stiffen the green grass all through the summer, but it grows rapidly, and the upper Klamath ranch especially has remarkable capacity Water stood a few years ago where now waving meadow grows Native grasses and wild clover are so rank that last year they cut and cured hay on that land while cattle pastured it, and the pasture was so luxuriant that he pastured 150 head of outside stock besides keeping his own there The range had become more extensive by the lowering of lake and river but the land must have kept nearly one animal to the acre

The Indian and military reservations are beautifully located and the ranch referred to lies in an amphitheater formed by the Cascade range on the west a circling range of hills that reach from them on the north and east and the waters of Upper Klamath lake on the south

Naturally it is a beautiful spot of earth, and despite the recurring frosts of summer, the grasses grow with wonderful luxuriance all through the warm season This is not the case to so great an extent with the lower ranch of 10 000 acres below Linkville The grass that grows there on the bottom lands furnishes abundance of hay and this spring beef cattle were fed until June The grass that grows on the uplands furnishes winter feed as it stand It is not necessary to cut and cure it for it cures where it grow and as there are no rains to injure it stock keep fat on it all the winter A light snow the animals paw away and if the snow is too deep hay is fed them

Much land along the lake and the rivers leading into it has been made available by dyking the shores and in times of excessive drouth the water is let in to flood the land awhile and revive the meadows To make these improvements has cost great labor, but they are permanent and valuable During eight years of constant effort General Miller has succeeded in creating a valuable property, and its value will be as permanent as the mountain ranges that shadow it

The 12 000 acres are enclosed with permanent fences, and indeed all the range far and near is under fence and owned by stock men General Miller is more favorably situated than most but there are many ranches where the lake and river shores are used as hay land and for summer range while the uplands are kept for winter pasture The higher lands away from the mountains are covered with bunchgrass, which furnishes the best winter pasture, being equal to the best of cured hay as it stands where it grew There is a considerable extent of bottom land on the great lakes of Southeastern Oregon, and in some parts creek bottoms afford opportunity for fruitful farms that produce good orchards

Many persons have tried to farm on the lands usually suited to that purpose and in good years they have done well. For five years the snowfall has become less and less Many of the smaller lakes are dry and ranges that depended on them are useless because no water is to be had for stock The Swan Lake ranch, owned by the Applegate brothers is in this condition and involves considerable loss to them Other ranches are ruined by the lack of water As far south as Nevada the great lakes are drying up and the cause is the diminished snowfall This has become worse and worse year after year and the entire lake country of the intermountain region suffers in consequence At Goose lake the shore has receded for miles, but this is not permanent, and any year may see a great snowfall that will fill the deep canyons brimful and restore this portion of the Inland Empire to its normal condition The present condition are very unfavorable to the country and their continuance will ruin many of its interests

As the range becomes limited and ranches are compelled to depend on their own inclosures entirely they are more careful as to overstocking the range they own for no one now depends there on the outside pasturage Last year General Miller spayed 400 cows to prevent their breeding and made beef of them This operation was so successfully performed that he lost but two This paper has been urging upon horse breeders the importance and value of mules and the profit in breeding them He has 2000 head of horses mules and cattle and attaches especial value to the profit on mules Soon after he began breeding mules a farmer named Ostrander came up from Sacramento who picked out ten unbroken young mules and paid him $1000 for them They are more easily broken to work than horses and a team of six that were working he sold for $750 The finer mares he breeds to a Black Stranger horse he took from this valley and he produces good horses but he breeds the small and common mares to his jack He raised a pair of fine mules that stood sixteen hands and weighed at least 1100 pounds from a mare that did not weigh over 1000 pounds and a jack that weighed 900 pounds He fully approves the position on mule raising taken by THE OREGONIAN The mule is longer lived hardier easier and cheaply kept has better and sounder feet and limbs and will do far more work in a lifetime than the horse Those who work unshod mules do not need to be told their value

TANZY POINT AND SKIPANON

Sheltered Coves Lovely Vales and Woodlands Astoria's Future Suburb

Astoria Transcript

What is Tanzy point and where is Skipanon are questions we frequently hear asked by strangers whose curiosity prompts them to inquire and find out for themselves how the land lays and what its future portends or its prospects may be when railroads from the interior seek an outlet for their business or come in competition with other lines for deep water facilities and the rich and growing commerce of foreign climes

At the mouth of the Columbia river and above Clatsop spit Fort Stevens rears her frowning battlements (don't frown much now) and the great jetty boldly breasts the dashing waves that break harmlessly upon this great national bulwark against the sea and creating a wide and safe channel across the bar while it forms a harbor of refuge to the storm tossed coaster the adventurous merchantman or the great unwieldy iron steamer that seeks the deepest channels and the safest bays And then comes Tanzy point with gentle sloping beach and wood begirted fields sheltered by a range of hills from the prevailing storms of the winter months that may beat with fury all along the coast outside while here a ship may rest in safety till the storm is over and then go on her way

But Skipanon with her rich fields and gently rolling hills will be the future home of capitalist merchant and artisan and the day is not far distant when the suburbs of Astoria will teem with a population of very many thousands and her limits will encompass the land most desirable and easiest of access

There is plenty of land and the thronging millions of the East are taking up their line of march for this coast expecting to stay John Jacob Astor with prophetic ken could see full well that the river that drains a mighty continent would ere many generations passed build up a commercial emporium that would commemorate his name while the English tongue remains the language of the world

The sensible man knows that this is no visionary or chimerical picture A decade of years cannot pass till the genius of civilization will have wrought so great a change that the mossback of to day if living will hardly know the spot on which he stood or remember the hills that have been leveled with the seashore

Time and tide wait for no man therefore now is the time and let us take the tide at the flood The first railroad is a guaranty of more than we dare [illegible] the world There are willing hands waiting for the material and for the order to advance When the first locomotive goes flying over the plains then will the [illegible] realize that a road is being built And before the echoes of the first screaming whistle have died into whispering cadences every [illegible] in the valleys and every hamlet on the hillside will re-echo the [illegible]

THE PITT DIAMOND

A Famous Stone With a Strange and Romantic History

Baltimore Sun

The fortunes of the Pitt diamond have been as various as the world [illegible] It was first made [illegible] placed in the crown after the coronation of Louis XV in 172[illegible] During the [illegible] consequent on the outbreak of the revolution the [illegible] was stored in France and the Sancy diamond were stolen Two years later, however they were recovered and in 1796 or 1798 the regent was twice pledged to German bankers as security for the cost of her furniture At the coronation of Napoleon in 1804 the regent appeared set between the the teeth of a crocodile in the pommel of the emperor's sword There the jewel remained until it was carried off in 1814 by Marie Louise It was however returned to the Emperor Francis and was reset for the coronation of Charles X During the reign of Napoleon III it was mounted several times, and in 1870 was deposited in the Bank of France from which it was transferred to the cellars of the treasury where it now remains Pitt resigned his governorship in 1709, and was succeeded by Addison, a brother of the immortal Joseph He represented Old Sarum in the parliament of 1714 15 and died at Swallowfield in Berks in 1726 at the age of 73 having lived long enough to see his grandson the future Earl of Chatham finish his career at Eton and Oxford and start on the grand tour before blossoming into the Cornet of the Blues

December	79	79¾	78⅜	78

FINANCIAL — Clearances, to-day, $196,604; balances, $66,678 18.

FLOUR—Receipts for the past six days have been 3687 bbls., a slight increase over those of last week. Of this amount 2735 bbls. were from the valley and 952 bbls. from Eastern Washington and Oregon. The market is strong and shows an advance of 25c per bbl. during the week. The demand continues good. We quote standards $4 25; other brands $3 75.

MILLSTUFF—Receipts for the past six days have been 2465 ctls; of this amount 1640 ctls. are bran, and 825 ctls. mixed. The market shows but little change. We quote: Bran, $14; shorts, $15 50; chop, $17 50@20; ground barley, $20 per ton.

OATS—The receipts for the past week have been 9,232 ctls, as against 11,688 ctls for the week previous. The market is steadily improving, and good old oats readily bring 40c and have for a week or more. We quote, 38@40c.

ONIONS—Old onions are about out of the market. The market is at present supplied principally with California new crop, but Oregon produce will soon be in. We quote $1 for choice new.

VEGETABLES—The market is in fine condition with trading in all kinds active. Oregon produce fills the demand, except in the matter of tomatoes. Oregon string beans, peas and cabbage are plentiful. We quote California green tomatoes 75c per 20 pound box; cucumbers 30c per dozen; lettuce, carrots, turnips and beans are peddled. Oregon cabbage, 2c per pound, peas 3c per pound.

POTATOES—Receipts have dwindled away to nil. Old potatoes are out of the market. We quote for new crop, $1 10; sweets, 4c per pound.

GREEN FRUITS—Receipts for the past six days have been 11 car loads and 634 boxes. The market continues active and very firm. California peaches are coming in in quantity, and apricots are plentiful. Some new California apples have also come up, and pineapples are plentiful. We quote: Bananas, $3 75@4 per bunch; lemons, $7 50@8 per box; California peaches, 75c@$1 per box; apricots, 75c@$1; apples, $1 60 per box; blackberries, 8c per pound; watermelons, $3 50, and cantaloupes, $4 50 per crate.

BUTTER—Receipts for the past week have been 184 pkgs. The market is firm and advancing. We quote choice dairy and gilt edged creamery 25c per pound, 60c a roll, good to fair, 20@22½c, common 15@20c.

EGGS—The receipts for the past six days have been 605 cases. The market is weak and demand active. We quote 20c.

POULTRY—The market is easy. We quote: Chickens, old $6, young $3 50@4 50, broilers plenty, light $3.

HAY—Receipts for the past week have been light. Old hay is getting pretty well cleaned up and the new crop just being harvested has begun to come in. We quote for old hay $13@14.

HIDES—Receipts for the past week have been 14,255 pounds. The market is weak and heavily stocked and gives every indication of increased stocks and decidedly lower prices. We quote: Dry hides, selected prime, 9@10c; green, selected, over 55 pounds, 4c, under 55 pounds, 3c; sheep pelts, short wool, 30@50c; medium, 60@80c; long, 90c@$1 25; shearlings, 10@20c; tallow, good to choice, 3@3½c.

WOOL—Receipts for the past six days have been 233,289 pounds. The market is dull and weak. We quote Eastern Oregon 12@18c, according to shrinkage; valley 18@20c. An Eastern trade circular says: Oregon wool has sold in larger amounts than any other grade this week, the sales amounting to 485,000 pounds, all Eastern wool. Valley wools are not here in any amounts. Choice Eastern Oregon ranges from 22@23c, and common from 17@19c, the clean cost of a fine being 62@63c, and fine medium 60c.

PROVISIONS—The market holds firm but slow. Eastern meats run remarkably fine and bring almost as much as Oregon. We quote: Oregon meats, hams 13@14c, breakfast bacon 13@13½c, sides 9½@10c, shoulders 9@9½c, lard 10½c. Eastern hams 13@14c, breakfast bacon 13@13½c, sides 9½c, lard 9¼@10½c.

DRIED FRUITS—Receipts for the past week have been 59 pkgs. The market is fairly active, with prices for new goods but little removed from old as yet. We have to report another slump in prices, however, all along the line. We quote: Sun dried apples quarters 4½@5c, sliced 5@6c, bleached Plummer dried 6¼@6½c, unbleached Plummer dried 5@6c. Oregon prunes, Italians 7c, silver prunes 7c, petite 6@6½c, German 5¼@6c. Pears, Plummer dried 8@9c, sun dried and factory plums 5@6c; peaches, 5@7c; evaporated 10@12½c. Raisins $1 75@2 25 a box. Smyrna figs 14@15c, California figs 8c per pound.

LONDON GRAIN LETTER.

The London correspondent of the Northwestern Miller, writing under date of July 8, says:

The weather both in this country and in France continues of the most favorable character for the wheat, and an early harvest is now assured unless the weather should turn wet before the present month expires. Equally favorable reports are to hand from Belgium, Holland, Italy, Spain and Algeria; in the three last named countries the harvest is in full swing. From Russia, however, the reports continue of the most unfavorable character, as well as from Hungary and Roumania, although the old stocks in Russia are considered likely to cover whatever deficiency may be apparent in the present wheat crop. The rye crop, however is very short, and as this is the staple food of the country the effect is all the more serious.

The wheat trade this week has maintained a very firm attitude in spite of the fine weather. Stock taking at the end of June disclosed the fact that stocks of wheat in first hands in the United Kingdom are by no means so large as was expected, and the consequence has been that cargoes near at hand or on the spot have met a better demand at 6d to 1s advance. Californian off the coast sold at 35s, the price accepted three weeks ago being 33s 4½d. March-April bills of lading had realized 34s 9d, which is fully 1s higher from the recent lowest point. Russian wheats, which had been somewhat unduly inflated by the damage to the growing crop, have been slow to sell and have been gradually drooping to their relative proper value. Stocks of wheat in the various ports are thus compiled by Beerbohm:

	July 1, '89. Qrs.	Jan. 1, '89. Qrs.	July 1, '88. Qrs.

Total wh't and fl'r	1,837,090	2,602,951	1,995,741

For flour the figures are as follows:

	July 1, '89. Sacks.	Jan. 1, '89. Sacks.	July 1, '88. Sacks.
London	300,000	373,717	414,000
Liverpool	110,775	105,110	105,752
Glasgow	132,225	93,590	147,300
Leith	48,926	45,407	19,100
Newcastle, Stockton, and West Hartlepool	28,996	39,088	38,053
Bristol	22,000	26,000	34,000
Dublin	30,000	61,166	50,000
Londonderry	18,000	9,000	31,009
Totals	696,952	752,078	889,255

It will here be seen that there is a respectable decrease in our stocks of the manufactured article, which is, of course, mainly due to the much smaller imports of the American product. The stock in London, however, remains relatively large, and the sale is by no means active. Pest millers have raised their prices 1s to 2s per sack, owing to the very short crop likely to be reaped this year, and this has a strengthening effect also upon American sorts. To sum up the relative positions so far as the new crops are concerned, and judging from the present outlook, I should say the Americas will grow 12,000,000 quarters more excess of 21,000,000 quarters. On the other hand, Russia will probably grow 9,000,000 quarters less; Hungary, 4,500,000 quarters less; Roumania, 1,000,000 quarters less, and Germany 1,000,000 quarters less; while India has produced 2,250,000 quarters less, and the Argentine Republic, Australasia and Chili, 3,000,000 quarters less. The ill-favored countries have, therefore, 20,750,000 quarters less than last year, while the favored ones have produced 21,000,000 quarters in excess. The result, therefore, is that there will probably be about the same amount of wheat grown for the season 1889-90 as was available for 1888-89; and the only case where stocks of old wheat are large is Russia, where there are probably 7,000,000 quarters left over to spare from the two previous abundant crops. Under these circumstances there is no encouragement for bulling wheat, except the weather prove unfavorable before the present month is out. Prices, however, are so low that it would be almost as risky to sell largely "in blank."

THE WORLD'S SUGAR MARKET.

The New York Shipping List of July 20 has the following on the position of the sugar market:

The sharp decline in the price of raw sugar that took place last week has called attention afresh to the actual position of the world's supply of sugar, and a good many inquirers, who appear to have had their confidence shaken by the events of the past week, having asked for information as to the cause of the previous advance and as to whether the present position of the article warrants a belief in the stability of current values. It is not surprising that a good deal of misapprehension exists, even among those who are more or less interested in the sugar trade, as to the reason why the price of raw sugar is to-day 1⅝ cents higher in this market and 7s 6d higher in London than it was a year ago, in view of the many sensational and fantastic stories that have appeared from time to time in the daily newspapers. Many of these have credited the Sugar Trust as solely responsible for this so-called robbery; others have informed their readers that it was due to speculation; while a journal of high repute, published in this city, that aspires to be considered an authority upon commercial topics, recently replied through its columns to an inquiring reader that the high price of sugar was due to the partial failure of the beet crop in Europe. It is only necessary to say that each and all of these explanations are highly imaginary. The Sugar Trust for nearly a year past has fought the advancing tendency of the sugar market with might and main, and on several notable occasions at its own cost; the only speculation in raw sugar has been that carried on in continental cities and has been the result, not the cause, of the advance, and lastly, the last beet crop of Europe was the largest ever produced, and the one now maturing promises to be still larger.

It is the cane crop that has fallen short, and notably the production of Cuba, Brazil and several of the West India islands, which in connection with the small beet crop in Europe two years ago and the natural yearly increase in consumption, has so depleted the surplus stocks of the world, that the quantity in sight from all available sources will do little else than meet the actual requirements of consumption until a fresh supply from new crops becomes available. Under these circumstances it may be readily perceived that the steady upward tendency of the value of raw sugar in all parts of the world, for more than a year past, has been due entirely to the natural operation of the law of supply and demand. As the months of July and August is the period of heaviest consumption in this country as well as in Europe, and no new crop sugar can become available until the latter part of September or the first of October, there is every reason to expect that a high range of values will be maintained, especially as there has been no evidence that the advance in values has yet reached a point that has checked consumption. The absurdity of the attempt to fix the whole responsibility of establishing the existing high range of value upon the Sugar Trust is best shown by the fact that quotations for raw sugar in this market have been uniformly and relatively lower than in any other consuming market in the world.

With respect to the recent drop in values, there is no occasion for repeating here the full explanations given from time to time in our market reports. A syndicate or consortium of speculators in Magdeburg, having become involved in their operations, have had to ask for an extension from their creditors, and pending the settlement of their affairs a slight flurry disturbed the surface and caused values to decline 8s 6d for beet, 3s 6d for cane in Europe, and ⅛c here for cane, but the relative position of supply and demand has not changed in any respect. As soon, therefore, as the uneasiness produced by this speculative adjustment has passed, the market will regain its former strength, and prices will swing back to their former level.

The Merchandise Market.

The condition of the growing crops is still uncertain. Flour advanced Tuesday 25c on the barrel, and sugars have fallen off ⅜c since last reported.

The San Francisco Commercial News in its weekly review has the following:

July has not shown as much improvement in general business as was anticipated, but there has been a steady advance in wheat and in freights, while some descriptions of merchandise have also improved and others fluctuated sufficiently to make them interesting to speculators. With large crops of cereals and prospective good prices the state has a basis upon which to build hopes of a prosperous season. In sympathy with the fluctuations in the market at the East and in Europe, sugar has during the month advanced sharply, only to adopt a retrograde movement later. During the week a decline of ⅛c has been recorded. The June imports amounted to 25,588,951 pounds of raw, making receipts for the first half of the year 112,996,205 pounds. The June exports of refined were 9,200,904 pounds and 68,075,677 for the six months. These figures show an increase over the like periods in 1888 and 1889. Coffee recovered from the extreme of depression noticeable at the opening of July, and for a time was active at improved prices, but at the close dullness again prevails. Arrivals at this port in June, chiefly from Central America, were 2,835,178 pounds. Rice is in good shape at this writing. There have been no further receipts of new Hawaiian since last report, but considerable is due, which may weaken prices when placed on the market. At present $4 75 per hundred pounds firm is the quotation. A decided improvement in mixed rice is reported from Hongkong, and this market seems in full sympathy, the rate now quoted being $4 30 per two mats, with sales of upwards of 5000 mats within the past week. The spot stock does not exceed 20,000 mats. For No. 1 of the three grades, medium, good and choice, a good demand exists at firm quotations. During June 2,593,831 pounds were imported, 1,954,176 coming from China and 442,000 from Hawaiian islands, and the balance from Japan and Italy. Free supplies of salt are en route from Liverpool, but the spot stocks are small and prices well maintained. Quotations are $19, $20 and $21 per ton for the cheaper grades of Liverpool, as to size of sack, but the largest size is very scarce, little if any remaining in first hands. The situation in canned fruits is so thoroughly reviewed in the private circular of Field & Stone, just issued, that it is annexed in full: As intimated in our previous report, the demand for canned fruits of all varieties has been felt during the past ten days. There is now no question but that the Eastern cherry crop was to a great extent a failure, and therefore we look for a positive cleanup before the close of the year. Packers have finished on cherries, berries, currants, and are now at work on apricots, peaches and plums, although generally speaking the apricot packing has about ceased. The peach crop of this state is far below an average one as regards quantity, and, therefore, packers who opened the season at very low prices have advanced, until to-day the market is very firm at from $1 75 to $1 85 for yellow frees and $1 90 to $2 for clings. The peach crop of Delaware will not be over one-third to one-half of an average crop, and consequently Baltimore packers are asking from $1 75 to $2 00 for 3 pound standards an advance of from 30 to 40 cents per dozen over the price in 1888. This situation is more than confirmed by the number of cables received constantly from the other side for peaches for the English market. The packing of apricots this season is not over 50 per cent of the quantity packed in 1888, and from the fact that peaches are considerably higher in price and likely to advance, we expect a heavy demand for apricots a little later on from the East. The quality of apricots this season has been fully equal to the average, and from some sections has been above the average in size and color. Pears, owing to the heavy demand from the East and shipments of green fruit are fully one-half cent higher than expected, which is clearly shown by the additional price, asked by canners this year, which is fully 10 cents above the average price in 1888. During four days last week the shipment of green fruit aggregated 111 cars, consisting entirely of peaches, pears and plums. The crop of plums is fully an average one as regards quantity. Prices are as low as have ever been known.

THE LOCAL MARKET.

PICKLES—Quote 3s 65c; 5s, 75c.

BEANS—The market is firm and shows some few changes. We quote small whites $2¾; pink $3@3 25; bayos, $3; butter, $3@3 25; limas $5 50 per cental.

SUGARS—The market is weak. Prices have declined ⅜c since last report. We quote Golden C, 6⅝c; extra C, 7c; dry granulated, 8⅜c; cube crushed and powdered 8⅝c.

COAL OIL—The market is easy. We quote 20½c per gallon for ordinary brands.

SALT—The market is steady. We quote, fine Liverpool $20, $21@22 50, stock salt $10 50@11 50 per ton.

RICE—The situation remains unchanged. Honolulu Island is the only kind in the market at present. We quote, China No. 2, $4 60; Island, $5 25; Carolina, 5c.

COFFEE—The market displays no new feature and remains as quoted a week ago. We quote, Arbuckle's roasted, 23½c; Java, 27½c; Costa Rica, 21c; Rio, 22c; Salvador, 20c.

CANNED GOODS—The market is unsteady. Prices are on the decline. The new California pack is just beginning to come up, and knocks down the prices, but the quantity is not sufficient yet to settle the market. We quote table fruits 2½s; peaches, $1 85@1 90; Bartlett pears, $1 85; plums, $1 65; strawberries, $2 25; cherries, $1 85; blackberries, $1 85; raspberries, $2 50; assorted, $1 85; assorted 8s, $3 50 per dozen. THE MEAT MARKET.

The meat market is about as usual, firm and even. Prices on both live and dressed meats show Mutton—Live, 2¾c@3c; dressed, 6c.

Hogs—Live, 6c; dressed, 7@7½c.

Veal—6@8c.

Lambs—$2 00 each.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The stock market was again dull to-day, and business of the forenoon was the smallest during that time for weeks. The unexpectedly favorable report of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy for June stimulated buying of greater stocks, and incidentally the entire market. The close was dull and steady.

Government bonds were dull and steady.

MONEY, BONDS AND STOCKS.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Money on call, easy at 2½. Prime mercantile paper, 4½@6½. Sterling exchange, quiet and steady; 60-day bills, $4 85; demand $4 86¾.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Produce receipts, past twenty four hours, include 8800 ctls wheat; 17,500 ctls flour; 30,500 ctls barley; 205 ctls oats; 2600 sks potatoes.

Freights—Nothing doing in spot grain charters, asking rates being above the market. Coal charters active, and include the barks Enoch Talbot and Discovery, to load at Seattle, and the ship Glory of the Seas, to load at Departure bay, all for San Francisco.

Wheat—The sample market is very quiet. Shippers' bids of $1 32½@1 33¾ for No. 1 shipping do not meet the views of holders, and offerings are light. Foreign advices are of a dull character and weak tone, and shippers claim there is nothing in the situation abroad to warrant late extreme prices. Options—Quiet. Sales, forenoon session: 600 tons at $1 41, 100 tons at $1 40¾, 200 tons at $1 40¾; buyer season, $1 46¾; seller year (new), $1 32¾. Closed: Buyer year, $1 40¾; buyer season, $1 46⅜.

Barley—Receipts to-day were very heavy, and offerings far in excess of the demand. Concessions are generally asked for, and in many cases granted. Choice and No. 1 feed, 70@67½c; common, 62½@65c; brewing, 87½c@$1. Options—Weak. Buyer year, 82⅝; buyer season, 85⅞c; seller year, 74⅞c.

Oats—There was a rather firmer feeling in the market to-day, and trading was more active. Prices not materially changed. Quote choice feed, $1 12½@1 15; No. 1 feed, $1 10@1 12½; lower grades, $1@1 05; milling, $1 17½@1 22½.

Millstuffs—There is a somewhat lessened demand, but stocks are small and prices well maintained. Bran ranges from $14 50 to $16 per ton; middlings, $15 to $18 50 per ton.

Potatoes—Receipts are liberal, and the market is overstocked with some descriptions. Quote Burbanks, 70c@$1 25; Peerless, 65@80c; Garnet Chile, 55@75c.

Bags—The market is quiet and unsettled, owing to some cutting of prices by smaller dealers. Quotations variable, ranging from 7¼c to 7½c.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Wheat receipts past twenty-four hours at the seven primary points east of the Rocky mountains were 635,000 bushels; shipments, 806,000 bushels.

Wheat—Cash wheat sold down nearly 2 cents while options were generally firm. Opened 79½c cash, 77¼c August, 77c September, 78⅝c December. Noon—78¾c cash, 77¾c August, 77⅜c September, 78⅜c December. Closed—77⅜c cash, 77⅝c August, 77⅛c September, 78⅜c December.

Provisions—Pork—Firmer; higher, $10 82½ August; lard, firmer, $6 07½ August; ribs, higher, $5 42½ August.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, July 31. — Cattle — Receipts, 12,000; common to good grades, stronger; beeves, $4 20@4 65, steers, $3 25@4 25; stockers and feeders, $2 10@3 15; Texas cattle, $1 75@3; natives and fat breeds, $2 25@3 50.

Hogs—Receipts, 18,000; steady; mixed, $4 20@4 45; heavy, $4@4 65; light, $4 30@4 65.

Sheep—Receipts, 5000; steady; natives, $3 90@4 80; Westerns, $3 15@4; Texans, $3 40@4 25.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Grain freights by steam to Liverpool, steady at 4½d per bushel.

Wheat—Dull and easy. Values steady. Opened —87⅝c cash, 85½c August, 85⅝c September, 87⅞c December. Noon: 87½c cash, 85⅝c August, 85⅝c September, 85c December. Closed: 85½c August, 85c September, 85⅝c October, 86⅝c November, 88⅜c December.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Hops—Easy and quiet. Coffee—Closed weak; near months, 5@10c down; far months, 5c up; moderate business on firm cables, sales, 66,500 bags; August, $14 75@14 80; September, $14 50@15 05; spot Rio, quiet; fair cargoes, 17⅞c.

Sugar—Raw, quiet and easy; fair refining 6 1-16; centrifugals, 96 test, 7¾; refined, steady and quiet. Molasses, foreign, dull, New Orleans, quiet.

Rice—Weak and quiet.

Copper—Firmer; lake, August, $11 75.

Lead—Dull and strong; domestic, $3 97½.

Tin—Quiet and firm; Straits, $19 70.

FOREIGN PORTS.

FALMOUTH—Arrived—July 28.—Br bk Famenoth, for Portland.

Use Gentleness.

Be gentle in stimulating the kidneys, otherwise you will excite and weaken them. The happiest results follow the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters to overcome renal inactivity. Avoid the unmedicated, fiery stimulants of commerce. The kidneys have a delicate membrane, easily irritated, and upon this the action of such excitants is pernicious. Malarial complaints, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia and biliousness succumb to the corrective influence of the bitters.

A British Bark Wrecked.

BRISBANE, Queensland, July 30.—The British bark Mallsgate, from Newcastle, N. S. W., for San Francisco, was wrecked on Middleton reef. Part of the crew is missing.

Who has fine Hair and desires to preserve its color, abundance, and lustre, should use Ayer's Hair Vigor as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean and cool, and is by far the most exquisite toilet preparation in the market.

R. M. Johnson, M. D., Thomas Hill, Mo., says: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor in my family for a number of years, and regard it as the best hair preparation I know of. It keeps the scalp clean, the hair soft and lively, and preserves the original color. My wife has used it for a long time with most satisfactory results."

Mrs. S. A. Rock, of Anderson, Texas, writes: "At the age of 34, in Monroe, La., I had a severe attack of swamp, or malarial, fever. After I got well my hair commenced coming out, and so continued until it had well nigh all gone. I used several kinds of hair restorers, but they did no good. A friend gave me a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor. Before finishing the first bottle my hair began to grow, and by the time I used three bottles, I had a fine head of hair."

WE'LL NOT FIGHT ENGLAND.

Senator Manderson Thinks We Are Too Enlightened to Go to War.

He Approves the Fisheries Policy Adopted by Uncle Sam and Believes the Dispute With Great Britain Will Be Amicably Settled.

United States Senator Charles F. Manderson, of Nebraska, and wife are at the Esmond. They will remain until to-morrow. They have not decided which way they will return home. They have an invitation from Senator Stanford to visit California, but do not know whether they can spare the time to accept it.

The senator is a short, stout man with a decided military bearing. He has seen service and the small circular red, white and blue rosette of the Loyal Legion, which occupies a button hole in his coat, was earned by hard fighting. At the battle of Lovejoy Station he was so severely wounded that, in April, 1865, after receiving the brevet of brigadier general, he resigned his commission.

Senator Manderson has a clear, rosy complexion and bright hazel eyes. He wears a long, light mustache which describes a good sized semi circle, and a light chin beard. His hair is tinged with gray. He is in his 53d year.

Of late the senator has been taking a great deal of interest in the seizure of the British sealing vessels in the North. He had just been reading the latest news when an OREGONIAN reporter called on him yesterday afternoon.

"Don't you think this fisheries dispute is rapidly approaching a crisis?" asked the reporter.

"It is not much nearer a crisis than when in violation of our understanding of our fishery rights, our fishing vessels were seized in the Canadian waters on the Eastern shore," answered the senator. "There, you will remember, with very great outrage and with much cruelty the American fishing vessels were seized. They were doing just what we claimed they had a right to do, but which, by the Canadian British contention they had no right to do. Here, we are simply turning the tables."

"Do you approve the course adopted and pursued by the United States government in the North?"

"Most assuredly I do. I believe that part of the purchase of Alaska from the Russian government was the right to consider Behring sea a closed sea. Let the ships of all nations go into Behring sea as an open sea and kill seals wherever found outside of the three-mile limit from shore, and those valuable animals would soon become extinct."

"Is there any possibility of a war growing out of this dispute?"

"No, no. I do not think that two great enlightened nations like Great Britain and the United States are likely to drift into war over that which is a commercial question. I am glad to see the matter brought to some tangible form and that it challenges attention, because the result will be a settlement by treaty or by arbitration of not only the dispute in the North Pacific, but also the more important question of our right to fish in the Canadian waters of the Atlantic."

THE OUTRAGES IN ALASKA.

Senator Manderson was a member of the senate committee on Indian affairs which recently visited Alaska.

"Our trip to Alaska was a very satisfactory one," he said. "We visited many of the tribes and found many of the males absent from the villages engaged in salmon fishing. Still we managed to see a number of the tribes which compose the Thlinket Indians, which seems to be the general term by which all the Indians of Southeastern Alaska are known."

"Did the committee inquire into the charges of outrages committed upon the Indians, made by the Eastern press?"

"One of the objects of the trip was to determine the truth or falsity of the charges of outrages upon the Indian women by white men, particularly miners and the employes of the Alaska Commercial Company. So far as the question pertained to the Indians of the northwestern part of Alaska, we could make no satisfactory inquiry, for to go to the Aleutian and Seal Islands would have required many weeks, and entailed a large expense. We made a thorough inquiry into the charge in Southeastern Alaska and found that the statements published had been very grossly exaggerated. We found the Thlinket Indians to be industrious and provident and they are making rapid progress. Their women, have always been, with them, a subject matter for barter. In their native condition the Indian men and women having entered into the relationship of husband and wife may quit that relationship at pleasure and the female child is usually sold, her inclination, in marrying, having no governing force.

Under the process of education which has been going on for several years there has been a constant betterment of the condition of the Indians. I think the standard of chastity among them is to-day as high if not higher than that to be found among the Indians of the plains of the middle West. Many white men, particularly Russians descended from the old stock, are married to Indian women. We saw at Juneau some evidences of Indian prostitution, that is to say, some of the dance houses had Indian women in them.

"On our return from Alaska we had a talk with the Puyallup Indians, who live near Tacoma. This tribe is not a large one. The tribal relations have been dissolved, and the Indians are holding lands in severalty. They have made excellent progress and are now desirous of being admitted to full citizenship. They seem to wish with great unanimity to lease or sell the lands taken in severalty. They insist that they should be treated as white men, and there is no reason why they should not be. While at first I was disinclined to look at the matter in this light I must confess that they converted me to a contrary view. I believe they are in better condition for us to inaugurate the experiment of extending to the Indians the full property rights of American citizens than any other Indians.

OREGON CITY PULP MILLS.

What Is Being Done in the Construction of the Largest Factory in the Place.

The following excerpt taken from a late number of the Oregon City Courier gives some idea of the headway being made at the large paper pulp mills under construction at that place.

At the pulp mill over 200 men are now employed. The amount of work they do in a week must be seen to be realized. The broad wooden wall that will form the west side of the mill basin is rapidly rising. Its total length from the concrete wall of the pulp mill to the limit of the arm that will extend outward into the middle of the east side channel will be 1500 feet. A temporary breakwater of over 300 feet in length has been extended in the form of a segment of a circle into the river. This will soon be made water tight, leaving the part of the river bed below it dry. Behind it, then, the eastern arm of the wooden wall will be built, and a 40-foot channel, 11 feet deep at low water, blasted to admit steamers. It is anticipated that the part of the wall of the canal south of the guard lock will be torn away as it will be an obstruction when the new work is completed. At the locality where the main building of the mill will touch the canal wall, workmen are cutting a short 100-foot channel in the rock alongside the base of the same as a part of the continuous canal that will hereafter be constructed from the mill to the quarry. The canal will furnish "dead loads" of horsepower. Over 200 timbers each 33 feet in length and 12x14 inches will form the principal part of the skeleton of the pulp mill, and a couple of powerful gins will be erected to raise them into position.

The stone foundation wall of the boiler room of the sulphite mill is now going up on the southern edge of the "quarry." Its dimensions are 46x90 feet, and it will be built of brick. Immediately north of this, on the "quarry" will be erected the wood preparing room, 45x60 feet; the digester room and blow pits, 46x50 feet; the room containing the chemical tanks 42x128 feet; the wet machine and screening room 42x72, and several buildings for storage purposes. All will have stone foundations coming above high water mark. The mill that is to manufacture the mechanical pulp and the sulphite pulp into paper will reserve attention after both these mills are finished.

DREDGING OPERATIONS BEGUN

It Is Hoped That a Clear Channel Will Be Made to the Sea This Fall.

Captain R. Hoyt, who went down to St. Helens bar about a week ago with the government dipper dredge came up yesterday. The dredge has been out of commission so long that it requires a great deal of fixing up in order to get it to running smoothly, so he has not accomplished much yet, but hopes to make a showing next week. The city dredge will be put to work at Postoffice bar next Tuesday. The bar is composed of soft mud and no trouble from snags is apprehended so it is expected that the work will make speedy progress. Major Jones hopes to have a good channel from Portland to the sea this fall, so that ships visiting this port will not need to lighter any part of their cargo. The fire on board the steamer Louise Vaughn at Astoria is unfortunate at this time as it was intended to use her as a tender to the city dredge. As will be remembered she was formerly the Hmmina, which was built for a tender to the dredge, but was leased to Frank Vaughn and partially burned at St. Helens and when rebuilt was given another name. Another boat will have to be engaged temporarily at least, as tender to the city dredge.

NO CAUSE FOR COMPLAINT

New Comers Should Hesitate Before Condemning the Prevailing Weather.

There are a great many new comers in Portland who do not take very cheerfully to the warm weather prevailing at present, and who are very apt to forget the blistering seasons they have passed "at home," and who are moreover oblivious to the sufferings of the friends they have left behind them. There may be a grain of comfort to such persons in the following extract from a New York letter printed in an Eastern paper.

"The weather-wise men with one consent admit that we are passing through a very anomalous season. The rains have been excessive and so has the humidity. How to account for it, science does not know, and the theories are various and contradictory. The effect of it is easily seen in the increasing sickness and mortality. The deaths of young children were greater last week by more than fifty than for any week for the last five years. Where we write there seems to be one continuous line of funerals to Greenwood and that is but one of our cemeteries. There are on an average nearly fourteen burials there in a day, and even a small rise in the average, as now, is very noticeable. Charitable people are doing what they can to alleviate the suffering. There are almost daily excursions of sick children and tired mothers down the bay and up the rivers and sound. Medical service is given free and medicines also in the tenement houses, but the suffering goes on. There can be no real remedy but the change of climate. We live in what is known as the temperate zone, and are subject to such extremes of cold and heat as is rarely experienced in the extreme North or South. We have been for many years in some of the states on the Gulf of Mexico, and have looked in upon the Dry Tortugas, but never saw there any days worthy to be matched with this year's June and July."

ENGINEER MILLER BURIED.

His Remains Conveyed by Special Train to Muddy Yesterday.

Faithful Jack Was Laid to His Long Rest While the Masonic Service Was Being Rendered—Where the Accident Occurred.

The remains of John Miller, the Southern Pacific engineer who died from the effects of injuries received in the railway accident at Lebanon switch Sunday night, were conveyed in a special train yesterday to Muddy station for interment. This train, which was in charge of Conductor Conser and Engineer Charles Fields, with the locomotive appropriately draped, left the East Side depot with about ninety persons on board, including Mrs. Miller, members of Washington Lodge, delegations from the A. O. U. W., the Brotherhood of Engineers, and a number of ladies. This number was increased at the car shops and at other stations along the road. About seventy came from Junction to attend the funeral and it was estimated that there were about 300 persons present.

When the train arrived at Muddy station the remains were taken in charge by Washington lodge A. F. & A. M., and those present forming line the casket was conveyed to the cemetery of Thurston lodge No. 8, A. F. & A. M. Here the beautiful and impressive burial service of the Masonic order was rendered, S. Bullock, W. M., officiating. He was assisted by Mr. Cumming, marshal of the day.

After prayer by Rev. David Wetzell the casket was lowered, after which the grave was decorated with flowers.

Rev. Mr. Wetzell pronounced the benediction and the procession marched back to the railroad and returned to East Portland. A stay of ten minutes was made at the scene of the accident.

PRAISE FOR ENGINEER JACK.

The death of Engineer Jack Miller, Big Jack as he was familiarly called, resulting from injuries received from the train wreck at this city Sunday night, is a case were a brave engineer gave his life to save his train load of passengers. After he saw the open switch he could have leaped from the train and saved himself by allowing the train to dash full speed into the open switch, but he set the air brakes, reversed the engine and checked the speed sufficiently to prevent injury to a single passenger, but met death himself after one day of torture from his frightful scalding beneath the wrecked engine. He was one of the most popular men on the line, and his memory will be cherished by his fellow workmen on the road and by the train load of passengers whose lives he saved.—Albany Herald.

He has handled engines on this line nineteen years or ever since it was finished and was recognized as a first-class engineer, one in whom the company and his fellow workmen had confidence. It might be said of Jack as it was of Jim Bludso that "he warn't no saint," but it could be also said as it was of Jim that "he knowed his duty a dead sure thing, and went for it thar and then," and there is many a sincere mourner for the cool and trusty throttle holder.—Salem Statesman.

FIRE AT OSWEGO IRON MINE.

Shed Over Hoisting Engine Burned—Supposed To Be the Work of an Incendiary.

The shed over the hoisting engine at the new mine of the Oregon Iron & Steel Company at Oswego was burned about 2 o'clock last Monday morning. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary, as the mine was closed down that night for the first time in many weeks. The mine being some distance away from the residence of any of the employes the fire might have remained undiscovered at that late hour but for the fact that some giant powder and caps were stored in the engine shed. When the fire reached the caps there was an explosion which roused everybody within hearing and the employes turned out and saved the ore bunkers from being burned. The engine was not damaged and but slight delay will be caused. The lumber for a new shed has been ordered and the building will be completed in a few days. The loss is about $1,000.

TOM MOUNTAIN PLEADS GUILTY

Rather Than Stand the Expense of Another Trial and Is Fined $25.

Thomas Mountain jr., who was tried before a jury that disagreed Tuesday afternoon, appeared in Justice Tuttle's court yesterday morning with his attorney and stated that rather than stand the expense of another trial he would plead guilty to the charge of assaulting Wing Sow. Justice Tuttle imposed a fine of $25, which was paid.

There is no doubt the Chinaman was very roughly handled by Mountain, as the former's face presented a very battered appearance. While in the courtroom the plaintiff wore a bandage over his face, but that did not fully hide his eyes, which were frightfully discolored. His coat was also covered with blood, which had flowed from his wounds. Mountain will probably be more careful in the future what Chinaman he assaults.

POLICE COURT.

The following cases were yesterday disposed of by Judge Turner in the police court: John Dean and John Donovan, drunks, fined $5 each. Mr. Sheehee, drunk, $10. Albert Buttner, disorderly conduct, $10. James Strain was fined $10 for being drunk and beating his wife.

N. Compis paid $20 for using abusive language to H. T. Taylor, and Dennis O'Rourke paid a like amount for using abusive language to Mrs. Rawlofski. V. E. Dorennus, who was arrested on a charge of causing rubbish to be dumped on the street, was discharged for want of testimony. The case against Isaac Gervertz, charged with obstructing the streets, was dismissed on motion of the city attorney. Charles Edwards, charged with assault and battery on Eug. Van Volsen, forfeited $15.

The cases of William Parsley, charged with obstructing the streets, and Dan and Dennis Voight, charged with using abusive language to Gustave Kuhn, were continued until this afternoon.

PRIME MEATS

The Best and Freshest Meats Being Sold at Very Low Prices.

Mr. L. Zimmerman, the largest and one of the oldest butchers and packers in the city, is now selling prime meats at prices that were never before heard of in the Northwest. Said the gentleman a few days since, in conversation with a reporter: "I last year inaugurated the plan of disposing of, during the summer months, meats that would allow me to cater especially to the trade of the middle classes. So successful was the venture that I followed out the same plan this year, and to-day I have all the business I can possibly handle." He sells only the freshest of meats, in all cases just out of his refrigerators, his immense trade allowing him to sell at prices that his competitors can not hope to meet. It is not, perhaps, necessary to quote prices here, but all looking for first-class meats at exceedingly low prices should by all means give Zimmerman a call.

A CHALLENGE TO YAQUINA

EMPIRE CITY, Coos Co., Or., July 27.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In your comment on appropriations for harbor improvements in the issue of the 24th you seem to think it a mistake that Coos should have a larger amount than Yaquina.

By comparing the business importance of the two places as shown by arrivals and departures of ocean vessels for the past thirty days you may conclude that Coos has the largest claim for generous aid.

Arrivals for thirty days to date, nineteen ocean steamers and seven sail vessels. Departures for thirty days to date eighteen ocean steamers and nine sail vessels, all with more or less freight in and full cargoes out, no railroad to the interior and depending only upon a small portion of this county.

I doubt if Yaquina can show one sixth of this amount of traffic even with the advantage of a railroad to the interior. SUBSCRIBER.

FAMOUS SARATOGA CHIPS.

How This Great Delicacy of the Table Is Prepared.

A Large Factory, the Only One of Importance West of Chicago, Started in This City—$40,000 To Be Expended Here This Year.

It will doubtless be a matter of surprise to many of the old residents of the Northwest to learn that in the East at the present writing the delicious Saratoga chip is as staple an article of every day commerce as the cracker. It will further be news to these same people to be told that the chip when properly prepared can be kept in any climate for the period of a year at least without the least deterioration in its flavor and that it now finds a ready market in nearly all accessible parts of the world. Those who have traveled on the Pullmans running regularly between Portland and San Francisco and provided with the buffet service have noticed on the bill of fare "Saratoga Chips," but it is doubtful if any great number of these same travelers have ever stopped long enough to consider just how these same chips were prepared. The impression has perhaps prevailed among those who have given the least thought to the matter that they were cooked right on the car, but a moment's reflection on the part of the most casual observer will be all convincing that the penetrating odor necessarily associated with their preparation from the raw material to a palatable article of food would render this impossible. It only remains to be told that heretofore these chips have been prepared in Chicago, more than 2000 miles away, shipped from thence to Portland and San Francisco and from these latter points distributed to all parts of the coast.

It is now barely two months since Mr. John W. Skiles, an Eastern gentleman of means, arrived in this city with a view of making Portland his permanent home. He had had large experience in the East, in the line of manufactured products, and for a time previous to his coming here had been engaged in the manufacture of the Saratoga chip. In looking around here for some investment from which he could hope for fair returns he was not a little surprised to find that there was not a single establishment in the city, or for that matter on the entire coast, devoted to the manufacture of the Saratoga chip. With the end in view of filling the field here he at once rented two small rooms at No. 6 Pine street, and as soon as he could get the necessary apparatus in shape, started to turn out these chips. At the same time he put a number of active men out on the road. He commenced to make a canvass of the city, and further to judiciously advertise through the columns of THE OREGONIAN the merits of his wares. In less than two weeks from the time of his first opening his doors to business what was his surprise to find that the quarters were entirely inadequate to meet the pressing demands of his trade. Orders commenced to first come in from Portland, then from the outside towns of Oregon and Washington, only to be followed before the expiration of the third week by calls from Idaho and Montana and from even the extreme southern parts of the coast. As Mr. Skiles stated to a reporter several days since: "I soon had more orders on my books than I could have filled in my old quarters for three or four months ahead." This determined the gentleman to seek a building more adapted to his purposes, and with this end in view he at once began to look around for larger and better quarters. These he found in a large two story structure at Nos. 180 and 182 Water street. He promptly closed the lease for the entire building and immediately put a large force of men to work in getting it in shape to meet his requirements. He spent several thousand dollars in new furnaces, vats and in getting everything in a condition to facilitate the easy handling of his business in the new place and the work of reconstruction progressed so rapidly that last week he was able to move from his old rooms which he had occupied but a little more than a month to his new and present commodious quarters.

Mr. Skiles opened his factory in Portland with a force of eight men, and with a daily capacity of 400 pounds of chips. To-day he employs regularly something over sixty hands all told, and can easily turn out between 2600 and 3000 pounds of chips a day. He now has the only factory of the kind on the coast and the only one of any importance west of Chicago, his one competitor west of this great city being a small concern in Denver with a very limited capacity. A hasty visit to the factory of Mr. Skiles will well repay anyone who cares to make the inspection, but for the enlightenment of all those who may not be able to visit the establishment a short description of the workings of the place will be here given in a limited space.

The potatoes after they are received at the factory are first subjected to a thorough washing, after which they are passed to the paring machines. From the parers they are passed through several waters and then to hands of workmen who carefully remove the eyes and all the imperfections. From the latter's hands they again go through several waters and after being thoroughly washed are passed to the slicing machine, an ingenious contrivance with many knives, which, in an inconceivable space of time, cuts them into slices all of an even thickness. After being sliced they are thrown into the soaking vat where they are allowed to lie for at least twelve hours. "This," said Mr. Skiles, "is one of the most important operations connected with the manufacture of these chips. You will notice," said the gentleman, again turning to the reporter, "that this slice of potato before it has passed through the soaking process is tough, soggy and almost wholly unpalatable. You will readily perceive on the other hand that after it has passed through the soaking process it is soft to the touch. It is as tender as a chick and is not at all disagreeable to the taste. The soaking of the potato not only removes all the starch as you will perceive by the heavy deposit at the bottom of the tubs, but it also takes out all that poison which is almost invariably found in all potatoes and which can only be entirely removed by the application of intense heat or better still a number of hours soaking."

After being taken out of the soaking vats the potatoes are passed through at least half a dozen waters and then go to the cookers. The cooking is one of the most interesting processes connected with the preparation of the chip. In the establishment are four large brick furnaces in which are set eight large cooking kettles. The kettles are first filled with lard which is brought to a boiling point, then the potatoes placed in deep tins with wire screen bottoms are immersed in the boiling fat in which they are allowed to remain, being constantly stirred in the meantime, for from five to six minutes. After being thoroughly browned they are lifted out of the lard and set over dripping pans, where by the application of a constant heat all of the lard that has by any means adhered to them is extracted and falls into the pans below. The chips now ready for the table are put up in two and five pound boxes and shipped out to the trade.

The starting of this factory is of far more importance to the city than might be inferred by the careless observer. Mr. Skiles at the present time is using all the way from 7000 to 9000 pounds of potatoes a day, an average of about 400 bushels per month. He says that before the close of the year he confidently expects that he will at least double this consumption. During the first year of his establishment here he will pay out to the farmers of this vicinity between $5000 and $10,000 for potatoes alone. During the same time he will use about $10,000 worth of lard, which by the way is the primest that he can buy in the Eastern market. His wage roll now averages in the neighborhood of $1500 per month, an aggregate of $18,000 per year. Counting in his outlay for incidentals such as wood, the necessary repairs, etc., Mr. Skiles will expend in this factory during his first year here nearly $40,000. In calling the attention of the people of Portland and of the entire Northwest to this new and important industry in this city, Mr. Skiles respectfully solicits their trade and as a guarantee of good faith on his part he will bind himself to furnish to the market here an article that is in every way superior to the Eastern product and at a price that the Eastern manufacturer can not hope to meet.

CAUTION

W. L. DOUGLAS' name and the price are stamped on the bottom of all shoes advertised by him before leaving his factory; this protects the wearer against high prices and inferior goods. If your dealer does not keep the style or kind you want, or offers to sell you shoes without W. L. Douglas' name and price stamped on them, and says they are just as good, do not be deceived thereby, but send direct to the factory, for you can get what you want by return mail, postage paid. Dealers make more profit on unknown shoes that are not warranted by anybody; therefore do not be induced to buy shoes that have no reputation. Buy only those that have W. L. Douglas' name and the price stamped on the bottom and you are sure to get full value for your money. Thousands of dollars are saved annually in this country by the wearers of W. L. Douglas' Shoes. In ordering by mail state whether you want Congress, Button or Lace, London cap toe, plain French toe or narrow cap toe, and be sure to give size and width you wear. I can fit any foot that is not deformed, as my shoes are made in a great variety of widths, sizes and half sizes. I guarantee a fit, prompt delivery and perfect satisfaction or money refunded upon return of shoes in good condition. W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

$3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.
$3 SHOE FOR LADIES.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

Is a fine seamless calf shoe, with Dongola tops and Oak Leather bottoms. They are made in Congress, Button and Lace on London Cap Toe, Narrow Cap Toe and French Toe Lasts, in sizes from 5 to 11, including half sizes and in all widths. If you have been paying from $5 to $6 for shoes of this quality do not do so longer. One pair will wear as long as two pairs of common shoes sold by dealers that are not warranted by the manufacturer.

Our claims for this shoe over all other $3 shoes advertised, are:

1st. It contains better material.
2d. It is more stylish, better fitting and durable.
3d. It gives better general satisfaction.
4th. It costs more money to make.
5th. It saves more money for the consumer.
6th. It is sold by more dealers throughout the U. S.
7th. Its great success is due to merit.
8th. It cannot be duplicated by any other manufacturer.
9th. It is the best in the world, and has a larger demand than any other $3 shoe advertised.

$5,000 will be paid to any person who will prove the above statements to be untrue.

The following Lines will be found to be of the Same Quality of Excellence.

$5.00 SHOE	GENUINE HAND-SEWED, which takes the place of custom-made shoes that cost from $7 to $9.
$4.00 SHOE	THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY HAND-SEWED WELT $4 SHOE. Equals custom made shoes costing from $6 to $8.
$3.50 SHOE	FOR POLICEMEN. Railroad Men and Letter Carriers all wear them. Smooth inside as a hand-sewed shoe. No tacks or wax thread to hurt the feet.
$2.50 SHOE	IS UNEXCELLED FOR HEAVY WEAR. Best calf shoe for the price.
$2.25 SHOE	WORKINGMAN'S. Is the best in the world for rough wear; one pair ought to wear a man a year.
$2.00 SHOE	IS EQUAL TO SHOES THAT COST FROM $3 TO $3.50. One pair will wear longer than any shoe ever sold at the price.
$2.00 SHOE	FOR BOYS is the best School Shoe in the world.
$1.75 SHOE	YOUTH'S SCHOOL, gives the small Boys a chance to wear the best shoes in the world.

All made in Congress, Button and Lace.
